Lancaster DHIA Presents Awards

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

SMOKETOWN (Lancaster Co.) — Officials of Lancaster DHIA reported a good year, with an increase in number of herds on test and a growth in the margin for the year. The county organization now has 1303 members in Lancaster, Chester, Lebanon, York, Dauphin, and Berks counties. The financial report showed a margin for the year of 79,599.85.

Dave Garber in the treasurer's report said the additional cows on test and the cost reduction in being an independent affiliate with National DHIA had been leading factors in the increased profitability picture. Garber said the profits were used to reduce the debt from $138,000 to $47,000 with the goal to be debt free by the end of the current fiscal year.

Jay Mylin, manager, reported an addition of 174 herds, 113 of which had never been on test before. Ten years ago the association had 1,060 herds and now they have 1303. The testing lab has increased production by 5,000 samples per month to bring the total to 55,000 to 65,000. The future goal is to continue to manage the flow of samples that will maintain quality testing at the current levels.

Steve Hershey reported for the Lab Committee giving an overview of how DHIA has changed from an organization that guaranteed records of integrity to one that leaves the dairy farmer to decide what service is wanted and to judge the published records by the integrity of the dairy person who is advertising them.

Winning both the top milk production and the top protein awards in Lancaster DHIA is Marvin Stoltzfus, Leola, right. Marvin's 56 Holsteins averaged 26,616m 923f 842p for the year. Making the award presentations are from left, Jay Mylin, manager, and Joe Graybeal, president.

Ag Awareness Across State

AIRVILLE (York Co.) — The Agriculture Awareness Ambassadors are preparing to carry Pennsylvania's story of agriculture across the state. Through a partnership spearheaded by the state Agriculture Awareness Foundation, farmers, agribusiness people, and other ag professionals will speak to non-farm groups. The presenters are getting ready to make speeches to consumers of Pennsylvania about the importance of agriculture to the economy and our lives.

Through a matching grant from the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, AAFPA is working with Penn State Cooperative Extension to place a slide set, "Agriculture is Everywhere," in each county accompanied with background materials for speakers use.

Three of six orientations sessions have been held. Anyone interested in attending one of the remaining three sessions is welcome. All sessions are from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. and includes lunch.

They will be: Dec. 16 at the Embers (Best Western), Rt. 11, Carlisle. Feb. 4 at the Oakhurst Tea Room, Rt. 31, Somerset. Feb. 11 at the Inn at Franklin, Rt. 8, Franklin.

Though pre-registration is appreciated, it is not required. Please call, Pat Sueck, executive director, at (717) 862-3486.

Goss Family Receives Mifflin Award

GAIL STROCK
Mifflin Co. Correspondent

LEWISTOWN (Mifflin Co.) — In the spring of 1945, Guy and Lena Goss handed over half of their savings to purchase a 10-cow, 123-acre farm - all $100 of it. The other hundred went to buy a team of horses. Now, 225 cows, 800 acres and six sons later, Guy and Lena watched their son Larry Goss accept the Mifflin County Farm Family Business Award during the Farm/City banquet held recently at the Penns Valley Christian Retreat Center near Lewistown.

Guy and Larry formed a partnership in 1972. Sons Mark and George joined in 1987. Hopes for a third generation will be met when Larry's son, Jason, graduates from Penn State this month with a degree in Dairy Sciences. The family farm is in Decatur Township.

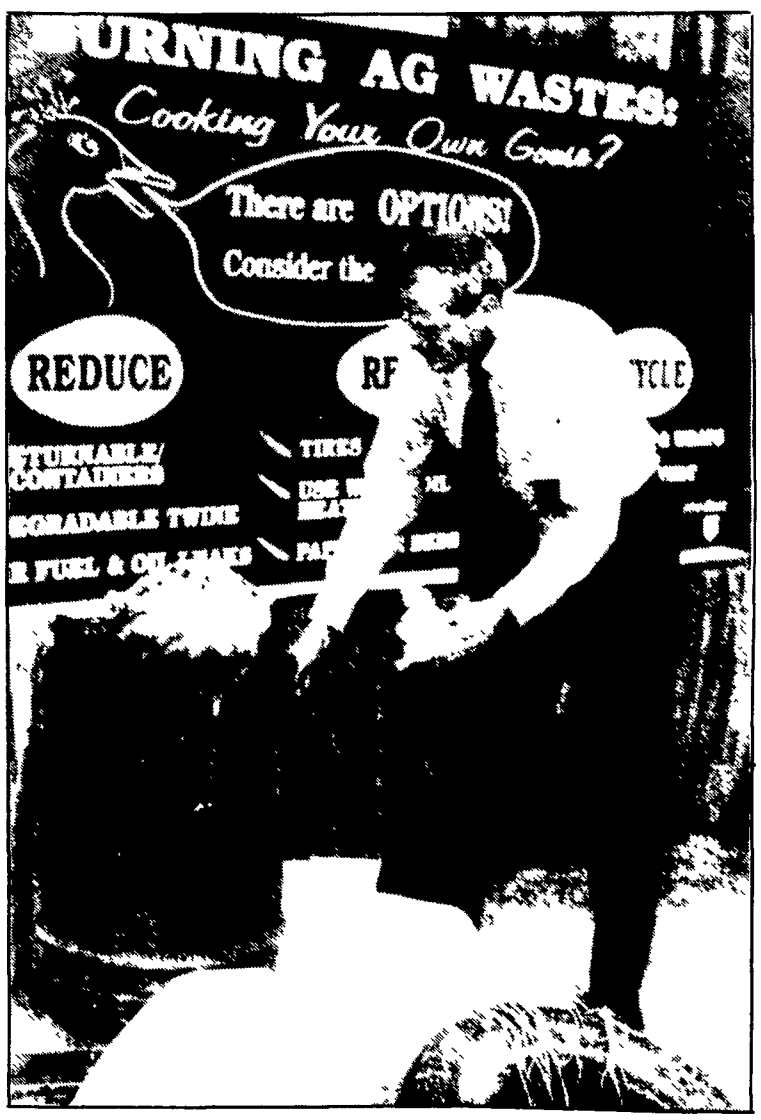
Ag Plastics: Disposal Challenges Mount As Solutions Become Costly



Plastic disposal continues to be a problem which challenges farmers. At this Penn State display at this year's Animal Housing Expo in Lebanon, James Garthe, Penn State ag engineer, reminds producers not to "cook their own goose" by improperly disposing of plastics — options which are few.

Editor's Note: Last week, Part 1 of the series on disposal of ag plastics examined the challenges farmers face. There are few options, other than open burning, for farmers to dispose of plastics. Part 2 looks at some proposed solutions to the plastic dilemma.

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — "It all boils down to economics and the American mentality — don't do it if it isn't economic," said a Penn State ag engineer.

On a mild day in November, James Garthe, agricultural engineer, spoke to Dale and Clair Hershey at the Hershey dairy farm in Manheim.

What the dairy producers talked about are the options for disposing of ag plastics, which are fast diminishing.

The Hersheys calculate that they dispose of a total of about 2,200 pounds of ag plastics each year. The plastics, from an array of silage bunkers and forage bags, are burned in an open cage.

Dale said that he uses a knife to cut the forage bag material, a forage plastic wrap bag, used for storing high moisture corn. Twice a week, using paper bags that hold several days of minerals for his total mixed rations, he throws the paper bags together with the thick plastic film into a six- foot square burn basket.

Included in the burn, conducted during the day in good weather conditions, are pieces of plastic from the three large silage bunkers at the farm.

In many parts of the country, the concern producers have is that farm neighbors could complain about the burning.

"As the farm community and the non-farm community heads further and further apart, or as the non-farm community knows less about farming, we get more of that," said Dale Hershey. "We haven't had serious problems — but every now and then somebody will stop in and

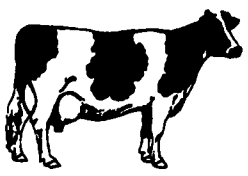
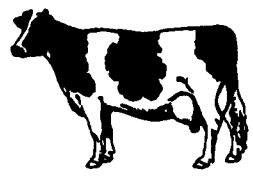
PENNFIELD DAIRY DAYS

The Family Dairy Farm



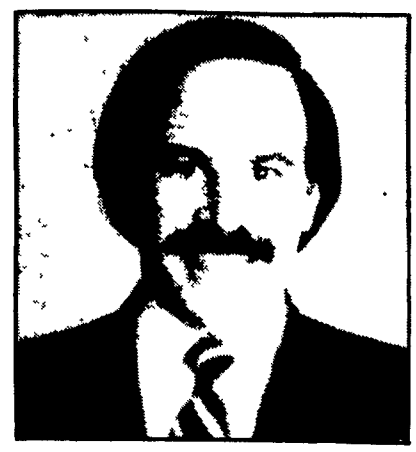
Profitable and Enjoyable



Featured Speakers

Timothy Snyder, Ph.D. PAS
Mgr., Dairy Nutrition,
Pennfield Corp.

Roger L. Saltman, DVM, PAS
Senior Technical Services Manager
Hoffmann – La Roche Inc.



Dr. Snyder grew up and worked on a central Pennsylvania dairy farm. During college he worked on a dairy research farm and on a dairy farm in Germany.

Dr. Snyder was employed as a multicounty extension agent in North Carolina. There, he emphasized dairy and forage production.

He did extensive research and teaching in graduate school. He was previously employed in dairy/ruminant research and technical service for a farm supply cooperative for five years. He has been with Pennfield in dairy/ruminant research and technical service for the past 10 years.

Dr. Saltman was raised in southern California and came East to attend Princeton University. After college, he purchased a small farm with a partner and farmed in the Finger Lakes Region of upstate New York. Afterward, Dr. Saltman returned to school to take a veterinary degree at Cornell Veterinary School.

For six years, Dr. Saltman was in a multidisciplinary practice based in central New York. There, he specialized in production medicine, including ration formulation, nutritional consulting, and records analysis.

Dr. Saltman joined American Cyanamid in 1987 as part of the Bovine Somatotropin (BST) project. He became involved in research and animal industry education, new product development, and technical service consultation. After the sale of the Cyanamid feed additive business, Dr. Saltman became senior technical services manager with Hoffmann-La Roche.

Thank You Farmers For Giving Us Support On First Sale.

FARMERS Farm buyers want to get rid of Paradise Sales Barn If this happens, look out for unfair tobacco prices in e future We are just providing a place for marketing tobacco at a very small fee You will hear a lot of rumors as long as the farmer does not get the same price at the auction as the on farm private tobacco buyer

Demand is strong for this thin 609 crop, but if the farmers would stand on their two feet, we would get burley prices in Pennsylvania this year, but with the strong demand on 609 tobacco in PA growing 1995, you could not keep anyone buyer happy in the county or at the auction

The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

DECEMBER 16-22, 1996

WINTER SOLSTICE, DEC. 21.

HALCYON DAYS

Halcyon Days occur around the time of the winter solstice and are supposed to be a time when the seas are calm enough to allow the kingfisher to lay quietly afloat on its nest at sea These days have come to signify a time of peace and restfulness, not only for the weather and the birds, but for all. In 1773, however, neither the seas nor mankind were particularly restful at this time. December 16 marks the date of the stealthful Boston Tea Party, when crates of prized English tea were tossed overboard into Boston Harbor by colonists disguised as Mohawks. Two hundred forty-two boxes of tea, valued at over £ 9,000, were thrown off the East India Company ships

There are few hours in life more agreeable than the hour dedicated to the ceremony known as afternoon tea. –Henry James

TIP OF THE WEEK

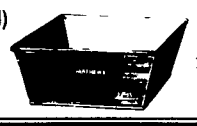
☞ Put a dollar bill in your refrigerator door. If it slips out easily, it's time to replace the door seal.

QUICK TEA LOAF

3/4 cup sugar
1 egg
1-1/4 cups orange juice
3 cups biscuit mix
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
3/4 cups chopped walnuts
1/4 cup raisins or chopped dates
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
1 tablespoon confectioners' sugar (optional)

Preheat oven to 350° F Combine first five ingredients and beat well Stir in remaining ingredients and pour into greased loaf pan. Bake until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean; about 50 minutes Cool completely before slicing. Sprinkle with confectioners' sugar, if desired.

Makes 1 loaf.



The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

Birds eat more just before a storm.

When birds stop singing and trees start singing, a storm is on its way.

If a goose shows a generous tuft of down at the base of its feathers, it will be a cold winter. (Time for those eider-down quilts!)

OK City Feeder Cattle

OKLAHOMA CITY, OK
DECEMBER 11, 1996

Compared to last Monday: Feeder steers and heifers steady to 1.00 higher with good demand. Steer calves steady to 2.00 higher; heifer calves 2.00-4.00 higher. Demand good for heifer calves and 4 wt steers, moderate for other steer calves. Quality of supply plain to average, with modest end attractive calves. Flesh condition of calves highly varied with many medium to thin, but several fleshy. Weigh conditions of calves and yearlings mostly average. Supply included modest number of yearlings off wheat. Weather clear and mild and perfect for moving calves. Buyers relieved with correction in stock market as this may have been largest concern to cattle demand this week. Slaughter cows and bulls steady. Demand moderate. Some increase in combelt participation but southern buyers continue to take bulk of slaughter cows and bulls. Replacement buyers very active and aggressive for numbers. Near 1100 cows and bulls sold with 60 percent to packers. Receipts this week 17,550; last week 5,583; last year 11,244. Supply consisted of 53 percent yearlings and calves over 600 lbs; 41 percent calves under 600 lbs; 6 percent cows and bulls. Prices follow with weighted average weight and prices in parenthesis. OPINION

Grazing In 1906

For everyone who enjoys farming, the opportunity to page through old farm publications is always fun. One of our Maryland readers, Harvey Fristoe, sent us a copy of the November 15, 1906, issue of The Country Gentleman, published in Albany, New York. At the time, this old publication was in its "seventy-sixth" year.

Since rotational grazing has become the "new" method of choice today, we thought it was interesting to see what recommendations were given to farmers 90 years ago.

From the Inquiries and Answers column here are some thoughts on the care of meadows.

The farmers in this vicinity are addicted to these practices: 1. They plant and seed wheat and grass together. In July they harvest the wheat, and in August turn their cows on the meadow, watching, however, that they do not eat too closely.

2. Or they cut the grass and stubble in late August, and then, after a little growth, turn their cattle on until the grass has been browned by the cold weather.

3. Others let their meadows alone, never turning their cattle on them.

Question: What do you you think of the above practices? Are not 1 and 2 injurious to the meadows? G.D.H. Metuchen, N.J.

Answer: Nowhere in agriculture does the old saying "penny wise and pound foolish" apply more thoroughly than to the man who pastures his meadows, particularly the first year after seeding. On some soils, and under certain conditions, this practice may not be suicidal, but we have never seen such conditions. We are inclined to believe that the tramping of the animals and the cutting and breaking of the new roots in the soft earth before the sod is formed does more damage than the biting off, for we have all noticed, as in a lawn, that repeated cutting seems really to stimulate the growth rather than to injure it; yet in that case we are seeking a dense sod rather than a heavy tonnage.

On our eastern soils, the man who pastures under the conditions stated under the second point is picking up a few cents and losing a number of dollars. In the case stated first, we should dislike to trust any man's observation to say just when the animals should be taken off. As stated in the observation regarding the second practice, the tramping is probably what does the damage, and not the grass eaten.

The practice mentioned in the third statement is the ideal one. American farmers place too little store on preserving their meadows and keeping them in the best of tilth so long as they are used for hay; and the safe rule would be never to turn animals on meadow land, even when the ground is dry, but to take off the hay, and, where conditions are favorable, to top-dress slightly in the fall with well-rotted manure, using a spreader if possible.

Yes, it can be said, "the more things change, the more they stay the same."

Now Is The Time

Lancaster County Agricultural Agent

To Increase Feed Efficiency

Glenn Shirk, extension dairy agent, reports many progressive farmers have been testing milk for milk urea nitrogen (MUN) and fine-tuning their rations. This has enabled them to improve feed efficiency and reproductive performance and reduce the excretion of excess nitrogen into the environment.

Elevated MUN could be an indication that excess protein is being fed or that feed programs need to be adjusted to allow cows to more efficiently utilize the feeds they do consume. Lower levels of MUN could be caused by rations that are deficient in protein.

The goal is to feed cows a balanced ration to optimize rumen function, improve feed efficiency, enhance milk production, and improve reproductive performance. Also, you want to control feed costs and reduce the excretion of excess nitrogen in the environment.

To Maximize MUN Test Results

Milk urea nitrogen (MUN) test results can vary from lab to lab due to different testing procedures, from cow to cow and from month to month, according to Glenn Shirk, extension dairy agent.

Levels are affected by how soon cows are sampled after feeding, stage of lactation, ration changes, etc.

While not perfect, MUN tests may still be a useful tool for monitoring the feeding program.

To maximize test results:

- Use the same lab.
- Because MUN levels of individual cows may vary from time to time because of metabolic problems and other stresses at time of sampling, look at group averages rather than a single test from one or a few cows. The group should consist of eight or more cows that are similar in nature.
- Sample cows at the same time and the same number of hours after feeding.
- Sample different groups of normal heifers, early lactation, late lactation, dry cows, etc. at different times of the year and when fed different rations. This will help you establish MUN levels that are normal for your herd. Use these normal levels as reference points to compare abnormal cows and practices that cause abnormal MUN levels.

Most of this data may be gleaned from your DHIA MUN testing results.

To Provide Winter Protection For Pets

Robert Anderson, extension agronomy agent, reminds us if you have a pet which is kept outdoors, spend a little time to make sure its living quarters are ready for winter weather.

Most animals can adapt to cold weather if they are provided good housing and adequate amounts of food and water.

The most important aspects of good outdoor housing is being dry and draft-free. When animals become wet or spend time in drafty conditions, they become sick.

Check now and throughout the winter to see that some type of dry material is available for pets to sleep on and that drafts are eliminated. During cold weather, check on a regular basis to make sure that food and unfrozen water are available.

Feather Prof.'s Footnote: "Some people make things happen, some watch things happen, while others wonder what has happened."

❖ Farm Forum ❖

Editor,

The recent announcement that the Basic Formula Price has dropped $3.76 per cwt. has stimulated dairy farmers to the point where they really want to do something this time.

The Basic Formula Price (B.F.P.) is used as the bench mark to establish milk prices to dairy farmers. On December 5th this price was announced at $11.61 per cwt. for Novembers milk. September's price was $15.37.

During the last two months I have talked with hundreds of consumers and they positively agree that something has to be done immediately to shore up prices to dairy farmers.

Calls are coming into us on an accelerated basis from farmers

NOTE: TO ALL SHEPHERDS
December 15, 1996

Background Scripture:
Luke 2:1-20

Devotional Reading:
Micah 5:2-9

Many years ago, when I was working in a suburban New York church, I was asked to take part in an ecumenical Easter dawn pageant held at a large shopping center just off the Bronx river Parkway.

At 5:15 a.m. I was zipping down the parkway. But, within moments, the flashing red lights of a police car ordered me to pull over. As the officer got out of his car and walked toward me, I began to be nervous, for I was in the costume of an angel - complete with wings and halo! When he looked in the window, I though his eyes were going to pop out of his head.

He regained his composure to ask, "Do you have any idea how fast you were going?" I told him I didn't, but I really had to hurry because "I've got to get to the resurrection on time." As he stared at me, his face clouded over and he blurted out: "Go! Just go!" And I did.

Angles sometimes appear in the most unlikely places. Like the fields outside Bethlehem where shepherds kept "watch over their flock by night." Angels - in a field? In unimportant little Bethlehem? They should have showed up in Jerusalem - at the temple or the house of the high priest.

NO PLACE FOR ANGELS

But God chose the humblest of beginnings for the birth of Jesus. Two commoners from a backwater town. Mary was with child, says Luke. Some of the locals might have observed that she was just another pregnant single girl giving birth to another welfare boy! Nothing very important could possibly come from a baby born in a manger.

And then look who gets the engraved invitation - common shepherds, one of the most humble vocations. Nevertheless, "an angel of the Lord appeared to them and the glory of the Lord shone around them ..." Now why would God squander his glory on people like them? They knew nothing; they were nothing; they would never be anything. Just shepherds, common people who would not be turned off by a child lying in a manger.

How do they respond to this angelic visitation? "... and they were filled with fear" (2:9). Zechariah had been troubled by Gabriel's appearance. Mary had been troubled by his words. So it is not surprising that these simple shepherds should have been filled with fear. But the angel reassures them: "Be not afraid; for behold, I bring you good news ..." (2:10). Once again the angel emphasizes that the message is "good news" - "for to you is born this day in the city of David, a Savior who is Christ the Lord."

"And this will be a sign for you: you will find a babe wrapped in swaddling cloths and lying in a manger" (2:12). It was not by chance that the Christ would be born in the most common of circumstances. That was the sign: God with us, even among the most lowly and humble.

GOING WITH HASTE

The angels did not make a mistake in appearing among shepherds on a hillside instead of the temple of Jerusalem. Humble as they were, these men knew what to do when they heard angels sing: "Let us go over to Bethlehem and see this thing that has happened" (2:15). "And they went with haste, and found Mary and Joseph and the babe lying in a manger." (Do you know what to do when you hear an angel singing?)

That wasn't the end of it "And when they saw it they made known the saying which had been told them concerning this child and all who heard it wondered at what the shepherds told them" (2:17). They didn't have to be scholars or orators; all they needed to do was to seek the Christ child and share what they found with others.

That's where we fit in the picture. In Advent we, like the shepherds, keep watch in the midst of our busy lives. Waiting to hear the good news that the angels brought to the shepherds so that we, too, may go over to Bethlehem to see this thing and then to make known what we have found there.

Messick Farm Equipment, Inc.

Elizabethtown, PA

Messick Farm Equipment's beginnings go back to Novernber 26, 1962. when two brothers, Marlin and Merville Messick broke ground and erected a new building along Route 230, three miles north of Elizabethtown.

The dealership officialy opened on February 1, 1953, with Marlin as Shop Manager, and Merville handling both the sales and parts department.

Two years later a full-time salesman and one additional mechanic were hired, and in 1962 an addition was built to the existing building, housing a showroom and additional parts area.

The successful Messick enterprise once again outgrew its shell and a new 21 acre site was purchased at the present location along Route 283, at the Rheems Exit, Elizabethtown.

With the new facilities providing 7.200 square feet of shop space, and 6,000 square feet of showroom, Messick celebrated its grand opening in February of 1977. Messicks have since expanded the building twice and have built an additional warehouse.

Today Messick attributes much of its growth to its 44 employees, including 15 mechanics, 12 partsmen. 5 salesmen, and four office personnel.

Factory trained as well as privately instructed. Messick's servicemen have years of experience in the agricultural field. The firm's parts department has experience in providing customers with the correct parts as quickly as possible.

To Messick's staff, the idea of simply making a sale, is secondary tn their goal of providing the customer with the correct equipment to get the job done. They are commilted to keeping their customers up and running with over 1 million dollars in parts inventory.

Messicks has a 1-900 number, 1-800-222-3373, also a fax number, 717-367-6662, to be able to provide their services to the customers. They ship and recieve by UPS, Federal Express, RPS, Airborne, Motortruck, and via their own "on the farm" Parts Route Delivery/Sales Truck. Their hours are 7:30-5:00, Monday-Friday, and 7:30-12:00 on Saturdays.

Internet Meeting Has Good Interest

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The Ag Computing and Electronics Expo that was held Wednesday, drew more than 200 of the top farmers from several states to learn how to farm with computers and use the Internet to communicate with other farmers and research topics of personal and business interest.

The participants paid $75 each (early registry was $55) to choose from a smorgasbord of topics and review commercial offerings of programs and equipment offered for sale at the trade show. Subjects included computer lingo, developing web pages, nutrient management, and farm management programs. For an additional $25 you could get hands-on experience from a local training center.

Because the expo was so successful, John Vogel, editor of Pennylvania Farmer, chief sponsor of the event, said plans are already developing to expand the program next year. In addition to the computer technology, the planning committee is thinking about incorporating additional areas of interest such as precision farming.

Sponsors for this year's event included Nutrient Solutions in Agriculture, Penn State Cooperative Extension, and Pennsylvania Farm Bureau.

In the evening program a group of farmers formed a panel to explain how they use computers to make their operations more profitable. These farmers use their computers to keep track of dairy rations, keep the farm books, manage their fields, keep track of markets, order machinery parts, or make other buying transactions, and surf the Internet for agricultural information.

While all of the participants in the panel were supporters of the computer in agriculture, some were quick to point out that it takes time and you must keep the records accurate and up-to-date in the computer just like in your grandfather's "shoe box" method of accounting. Not all the farmers even thought computers made their operation more profitable. But it is a tool to be used like any other tool to stay up-to-date and become more efficient.

The farmer panel included Steve Groff, vegetable and grain producer from Holtwood; Roger Garber, a grain and poultry producer from Mount Joy; Cliff Hawbacker, dairy farmer from Chambersburg; Brad Hollabaugh, fruit grower from Biglerville; and Johathan Quinn, grain farmer from Warwick, Md.

Lancaster DHIA

There are no longer official herds, but USDA will weight the information it publishes by how many times the samples and milk weights are observed when taken at the farm. Items that may be considered when judging reliability of records are: production levels out of line from the average, and deviation from bulk tank weights.

Joe Graybeal, president, said the state boundaries are down, and a lot of large mergers are occurring. Cooperation between many service provides are helping to reduce the cost to dairymen. Graybeal said the local board wants to do whatever possible to reduce this cost.

In the recognition of production records, Marvin R. Stoltzfus, Leola, had the top production in both milk and protein with 26,616m 923f 842p on 56 Holstein cows.

Delmar Wenger, Lancaster, had the top Jersey herd on 42 cows that averaged 16,470m 758f 620p.

In the Brown Swiss breed, Donald Trimble, Peach Bottom had 52 cows 17,944m 795f 661p.

Axel Linde & Millie Widmann had the top Guernsey herd with 78 cows that averaged 17,174m 781f 603p.

And in the Ayrshire breed, Warren Schmuck had 73 cows that averaged 17,343m 699f 595p.

The low somatic cell count herd was from Gary and Jenny Bowman, Nottingham, with and SCC of 78,000. Anything under 200,000 is considered exceptional.

The technician quality service awards went to Willie Heistand, Harold Lindecamp, Keith Martin, Kenneth Miller, Harold Probst, and Dwight Rohrer. George Book and Willie Heistand received 10 and 5 year awards. Six technicians in the organization have over 28 years of service with a top of 43 years.

In the election of officers, Graybeal, John Warner, and John Groff were reelected and Frank Reist and Tom Lapp were newly elected.

Glenn Shirk, Lancaster County dairy agent, concluded the annual meeting with a reminder that in this Christmas season it is important to reflect on the meaning of life and how the farm is helping you to achieve your life's mission.

He referred to the profitability of the farm as necessary to keep in business and gave some guidelines to focus on the things that have the greatest potential to affect the bottom line.

Shirk said he had watched the Lancaster DHIA board of directors grow in their role as an independent organization. He said the directors were focused, worked hard and had the farmers' welfare at heart.

William Heistand received a five-year service award, and George Book, a ten-year award.

Warren Schmuck, Peach Bottom had the top Ayrshire herd milk production. His 73 cows averaged 17,343m 699f 595p for the year.

The Mifflin County City Family Business Award went to James F. Havice, Inc. of Lewistown. This distribution business grew out of a neighborhood grocery store when Jim Jr. purchased the business from his father in 1972. It now supplies 3,500 stores in 11 states and Washington, D.C. with a variety of health and beauty care items and general merchandise. The business employs 150 people and is located in a 60,800 square-foot building in Lewistown. Jim, Jr.'s son, Chris, is now a part of the business.

After the awards presentation, Mifflin County educator Carrie Stufft, who serves on the Curriculum Development Staff for Pennsylvania's Ag in the Classroom Program, presented her program entitled "Agriculture is Everywhere."

Stufft said many children are three generations away from their farming roots. Ag in the Classroom, a one-week program held at Penn State each July, helps bridge that gap by teaching teachers to incorporate agricultural activities into the classroom.

Stufft said that teachers rated this past year's Sunday afternoon program as one of their favorites. For the first time in the Ag in the Classroom Program, several 4-H and FFA youth from Mifflin County transported their animal projects to the Ag Arena, and transported themselves into an enviable position - teaching teachers.

The Goss Family gathers to accept the Farm Family Business Award, presented to them during the Mifflin County Farm/City Banquet. Guy and Lena Goss are surrounded by their three sons who now farm in partnership. Left to right are George and Debra Goss, Larry and Judy Goss, and Mark Goss and Stephanie Swinehart.

Mifflin County's City Family Business Award went to the James F. Havice family who owns a general merchandise distribution business. Jim Sr. and Vera Havice are joined by Deb, Chris, and Jim Havice, Jr. In front are Claire and Jordan.

Indiana County Dairies Benefit From Dairy-MAP

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The Dairy Management and Profitability (Dairy-MAP) program from Penn State pays dividends to those who attend. Recently, two Indiana County producers acknowledged the impact of the program.

Ginny Nehrig stated that Dairy-MAP motivated her family farm to begin setting goals for its operation. Ginny and her son David attended the Managing for Success workshop for Indiana County in 1995. David was taking control of their 100 cow dairy. "Dairy-MAP has helped us to be more thorough in discussing ideas. We are also more aware of the need for long range planning."

The Managing for Success workshops are designed to improve problem solving and decision making skills. Farm Managers participate in exercises and discussion on topics including mission statements, goal setting, and creating a control plan.

Dairy-MAP also offers a Financial Management workshop. Tom and Kathy Wallace attended this Indiana workshop in the spring of 1996. Tom, brother Tim, and father Lawrence operate a 140 cow farm. "Since the workshop, we are spending more time in the financial records" Tom says, adding "We pay closer attention to any trends." Trend analysis is an important topic of the workshop on finance.

Both Nehrig and Wallace recommend attending the Dairy-MAP workshops. Workshops are two days of information, hands-on exercises, and group discussion. Participants are challenged to become even better managers of their farm businesses.

Ag Exporters To Benefit From Promotion Program

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Pennsylvania agricultural exporters will benefit from a federal program targeted to emerging markets, according to Agriculture Secretary Charles C. Brosius.

The Emerging Markets Program, administered by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Foreign Agricultural Service, provides funding for a broad range of market development activities designed to promote market access and increase export volume.

"Countries with developing economies have tremendous growth potential which can be beneficial to Pennsylvania agribusinesses wanting to expand their export activities," Brosius said. "The Ridge Administration is committed to opening new opportunities for Pennsylvania products and the Emerging Markets Program can provide resources to support that goal."

As part of the 1996 federal Farm Bill, there is $10 million available annually for the next seven years. The program offers new approaches to sharing U.S. agricultural expertise through technical assistance, contracts and grants to develop and expand markets for agricultural products. It is geared toward increasing participation by the private sector.

Program activities include agricultural sector and joint venture assessments, market information systems, commodity exchange development, and resident policy advisers. There will also be training opportunities in importing, agricultural banking and credit, business planning, and sanitary and phytosanitary requirements.

Assistance in completion of funding proposals for the project is available from the department's Bureau of Market Development. For more information, call (717) 783-3181.

SHAWANO, Wis. — At a recent meeting, the Executive Committee of National Dairy Shrine voted unanimously to increase its annual scholarship awards by $4,400 over its previous year's offerings. Over $11,000 in scholarships will be awarded by National Dairy Shrine in 1997.

The organization's collegiate scholarships receiving increases are the Student Recognition Program and the Dairy Product Marketing scholarships provided by Dairy Management Inc. (DMI). The Kildee Scholarship program will be reviewed at a later date.

Cash awards for the Student Recognition Program will be awarded at the following levels: First - $1500, Second - $1000; Third through Fifth - $500. Based on the quality of the applications, the selection committee will be given the option of awarding up to three additional $500 awards.

The purpose of the Student Recognition Program is to reward graduating seniors who are planning a career related to dairy-production agriculture and who demonstrated leadership skills, academic ability and interest in dairy cattle. Each university can nominate one student for this award.

The scholarships provided by Dairy Management Inc., with funding from both DMI and National Dairy Shrine, will be as follows: First place - $1000; second through seventh place - $500 each. The DMI/National Dairy Shrine scholarships are provided to encourage qualified undergraduate students to pursue careers in the marketing of dairy products. Major areas can include Dairy Science, Animal Science, Agricultural Economics, Agricultural Communications, Agricultural Education, General Education and Food & Nutrition.

The $2000 Kildee Scholarship for advanced study can be applied for by any of the top 25 individuals in the National Intercollegiate Dairy Cattle Judging Contest at Madison, WI, held during World Dairy Expo.

WORK WATCH

Still Running Strong

In past years we sold hundreds of work watches to hard-working individuals like yourself who needed an accurate, dependable timepiece. A watch that would withstand the dust, moisture, bumps and temperatures encountered on the farm, in the orchard and in the woods Many who bought the work watch told us it was the best watch they had ever owned.

Our work watch has all the features needed to endure the punishment you will put it through. The WATER RESISTANT seal will protect your watch when you irrigate fields, fix broken water systems, get milk splashed on your arm while feeding calves, or walk the fence in the rain, to find out where your cattle are getting out. Being SHOCK RESISTANT, your work watch will continue to work when it is slapped by a cow's tail, a falling board, or the belt shield that your arm slams against when your wrench slips off the bolt. While your watch is scraped by branches, rubbed against walls, and knocked against machinery, the low profile, SCRATCH RESISTANT, glass crystal will resist the scratches and cracks that render watches unreadable. The BATTERY POWERED QUARTZ movement of your work watch is accurate to within 2 minutes per year, and does not need to be wound, meaning that your watch will be on time, all the time, without any effort on your part.

A final proof of the strength of this watch and of its suitability to your needs is the warranty. If your watch stops running within TWO YEARS of the date of purchase the manufacturer will repair or replace your watch at no charge.

To receive your new work watch, complete the coupon below and send it with your payment. Your work watch will arrive shortly.

Sustainable Ag Conference Set

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Cooperation for effective change will be the theme of the sixth annual "Farming for the Future" Conference, February 7 and 8 at the Nittany Lion Inn in University Park, Pa. Sponsored by the Pennsylvania Association for Sustainable Agriculture (PASA), the gathering at Penn State attracts hundreds of farmers, educators, researchers and community representatives for a dynamic weekend of learning and sharing. Call (814) 349-9856 for a registration packet.

The conference features dozens of practical presentations for food producers, consumers and resource managers. Topics include marketing your crops and livestock, forage and pasture management, strategic planning, tapping the Internet, reducing off-farm inputs, weed control, composting and soil health, extending the vegetable season, no-till cropping systems, narrow-row corn production, cut flowers and more.

Also on this year's agenda are six mini-conferences: more intensive sessions focusing on innovative producer co-ops, community-oriented farmland protection programs, tools for grazing profitability, greenhouse biological pest controls, small-scale food processing and seed saving.

The opening keynote speaker will be Tom Elliott, owner/operator of the 48,000-acre N-Bar Land and Cattle Co., Grass Range, Mont. The N-Bar has operated since 1885. Elliott relies on ecological, whole-farm management approaches to raise highly regarded Angus cattle that thrive on dryland pasure, performance-tested livestock genetics, registered seedstock and certified organic farm crops, including wheat, barley, oats, flax and vegetables. "Stewardship is not a cost - it's one of the highest returning investments we can make," says Elliott. He employs innovative marketing methods to build customer relationships, including an Internet web site and electronic newsletter, on-ranch livestock auctions twice a year and community-oriented educational outreach.

The conference also features Elizabeth Henderson, a 60-acre, organic, fresh-market vegetable farmer near Lake Ontario. She has promoted a community-strengthening, regional approach to food and farming systems since the 1970s. "If we want ecologically produced, safe and nutritious food, with a decent living and safe working conditions for all the people who work in our food system, then we have our work cut out for us," says Henderson. She offers heartening news on how farmers' markets, Community Supported Agriculture, food co-ops and other collaborative, action-oriented approaches by sustainably minded groups generate "encouraging statistics in U.S. agriculture."

Also scheduled:

- Eric Gibson, author Sell What You Sow, will focus on effective marketing methods and how to keep local markets and consumers informed about your products.
- Steve Groff, owner of Cedar

Meadow Farm, Holtwood, Pa., will discuss how he no-till transplants tomatoes, pumpkins, broccoli and other vegetables into killed cover crops to improve soil, manage pests and boost profits. Groff also will review his 1996 on-farm study showing how 15-inch rows can boost corn yields and improve weed control while reducing herbicide costs.

• Dairy farmer Roman Stoltzfoos, Kinzers, Pa., and a panel of other pasture-based producers will address how to maximize the grazing season, balance nutritional needs and improve your marketing strategy.

• Compost consultant Will Brinton, founder of Woods End Lab in Maine, will review the latest on using compost for disease suppression and how to minimize tillage when composting.

• Uta and Angelika Luebke of Peuerbach, Austria, will show how the Luebke Controlled Microbial Composting method in combination with cover crops and effective rotations can keep your soil alive.

• Marty Rice, organic farmer and planning commission member in Frederick County, Md., and other ag specialists discuss how community partnerships can strengthen and protect local agriculture.

"New this year is the PASA Cafe, a 'chat 'n chew room' on Friday night right after our sustainability produced-in-Pennsylvania dinner. It will be a great opportunity for networking," notes Tim Bowser, PASA's Executive Director.

Dozens of conference sponsors and other exhibitors will display products, services and programs that promote and support sustainable agriculture. Major sponsors include Penn State, Rodale Institute, Atlantic Dairy Coop, Penn Ag Industries, Walnut Acres, Albert's Organics, Fertrell, and American Farmland Trust. Ample time to visit the exhibits has been allotted during the conference.

A widely respected, nonprofit, member-based organization, the Pennsylvania Association for Sustainable Agriculture has been promoting ecologically sound, economically viable, socially responsible and community-based food and farming systems since its founding in 1992. Did You Know?
University tests and tens of 1,000s of satisfied dairy producers have proven isolation calf housing, hutches, are absolutely the best way to raise healthy calves Progressive dairy producers do not sacrrfice calf health for personal convenience

Calf-tel is the only thermoformed hutch Thermoforming is a process that imparts strength to the polymer like forging does to steel Rotocasting, a process used by all other plastic hutch manufacturers, creates a weaker, less durable product that is prone to cracking

Calf-tel is the only hutch manufactured with completely opaque material to effectively eliminate the green house effect This heat trapping effect overheats calves when temperatures climb above 80° F and also causes uncontrollable temperature swings daily when temperatures drop below freezing Over 100,000 Calf-tels are helping raise healthier, growthier calves worldwide from Florida through the sunbelt to California Washington across the dairy belt to New England and in 20 foreign countries

Calf-tel is the only hutch made of high molecular weight polyethylene plastic with a high load UV blocking pigment This quality material enables Hampel Corp to warranty Calf-tel for ten years, the longest in the calf hutch industry

Long after competitive hutches are discarded, used Calf-tels sell from $125 to $200 each–even after ten years of use Such a high residual value decreases cost per hutch to as low as $12 per year

When operator comfort is a concern, creative dairy producers have provided covered service alleys or placed Calf-tels in two or three sided shelters during inclement times

Ag Plastics: Disposal Challenges Mount As Solutions Become Costly

call or complain about some sort of thing."

Dale asked Garthe, "Is there another way to protect silage bunkers other than plastic?"

The ag engineer merely shook his head.

"I believe, personally, that edible plastics and containers of the future could be incorporated into the feed ration," said Garthe. "That day is coming."

Meanwhile, however, methods to reuse or recycle plastics may be the only options.

One solution would be to take the bunk silo wraps and reuse them to cover log piles. Or simply take empty detergent containers, rinse them, and reuse them in the home or garden.

But the volume of ag plastics on farms continues to grow at an exponential rate.

One method of disposal includes recycling the material.

According to Garthe, the most common way to recycle the plastics is to compact and bundle them and ship them off to a company that accepts ag plastics. But restrictions apply: recyclers want 15-20 tons of the material at once; it must be free of dirt, as clean as most greenhouse film; and it should be free of pesticides.

One study that Penn State and other universities is involved with is investigating how much pesticide residues exist on greenhouse and mulch film. Early in 1997, results of the tests — which will raise some concerns about exactly how much residues are on the films — will be available.

Until then, recyclers grapple

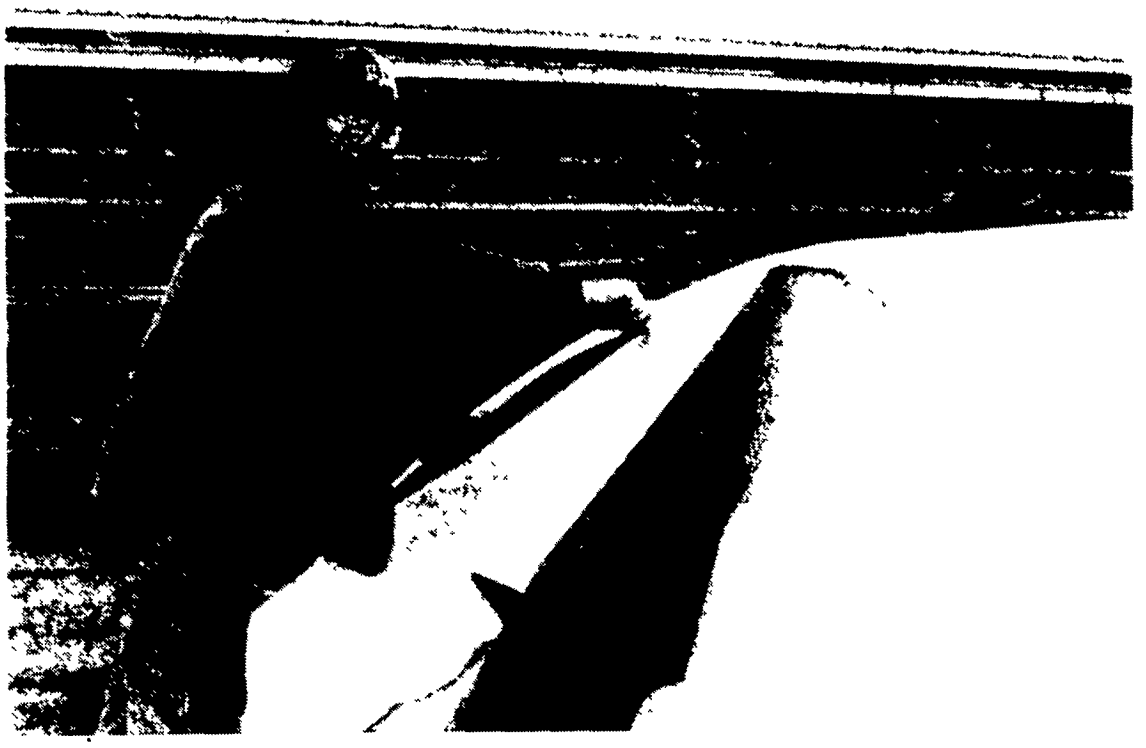
'I believe, personally, that edible plastics and containers of the future could be incorporated into the feed ration,' said Garthe. 'That day is coming.'



Dale Hershey, Manheim, uses a knife to cut the forage bag material he uses to store high moisture corn. Twice a week, using paper bags that hold several days of minerals for his total mixed rations, he throws the paper bags together with the thick plastic film into a six-foot square burn basket.

Timothy J. Breneisen, recycling coordinator, said that farmers can bring in plastic for a fee of $69 per ton. Mulch film must be tied in bundles with baler twine or wire and must not have any loose tape. "Farmers who bundle up the plastic will make it easier and more efficient for us to handle," said Breneisen. The incinerator, owned by the Authority and operated by Ogden Martin Systems of Lancaster, Inc., accepts all types of plastic.

The Lancaster County Resource Recovery Facility is operated by the Lancaster County Solid Waste Management Authority south of Bainbridge. The facility, constructed in 1988 for $105 million, processes up to 1,200 tons of refuse every day — including plastic.

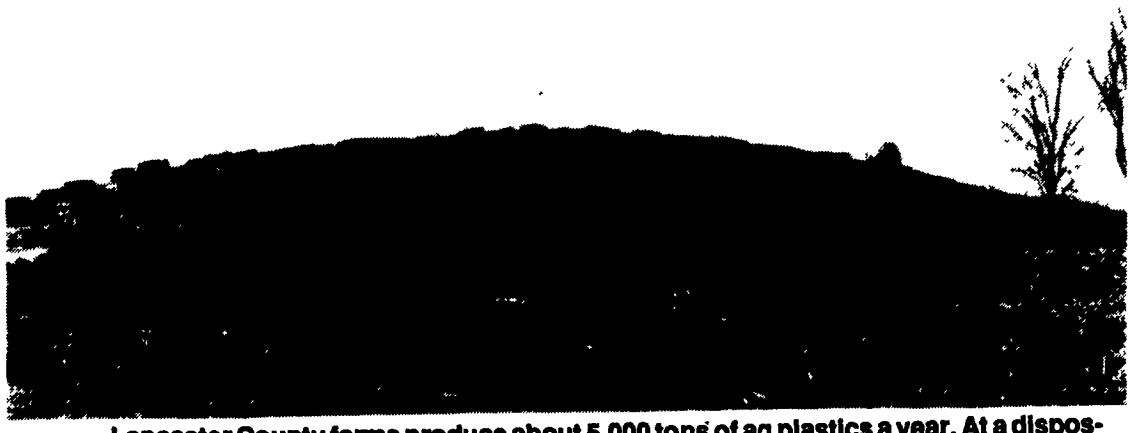
with the problem of recycling films that sometimes have more dirt and debris on them than the film itself weighs. Thicker films, such as nine-mil silage bags, are more economically recycled than mulch films, which are often one mil or less in thickness.

"Recyclers don't want to buy dirt," said Garthe, "and they don't want to spend much money cleaning the plastic, either. If the farmer believes it's right to recycle these materials, then he has to do what he can to keep them as clean as possible."

A plastic in heavy use is a common ag forage wrap bag marketed by a company in Warrenton, Ore. They've been selling forage wrap for 19 years. According to Jeanne Seppa, assistant to the CEO at the Warrenton company, the ag plastic wrap bags are made of a low density polyethylene and are safe to burn.

Much of the plastic to be recycled comes from large agricultural states such as California. But for farmers in California, much of the material has to be cleaned, cut, and baled before it is recycled. The material to be recycled goes to the actual manufacturer of the plastic, based in Grand Prairie, Texas. PolyAmerica, which makes the ag plastic wrap bags, cuts and pelletizes the plastics to be recycled for a wide variety of items.



Lancaster County farms produce about 5,000 tons of ag plastics a year. At a disposal rate of $69 per ton, that adds up to about $345,000 in garbage receipts per year, or about $150,000 worth of revenue for the Authority if all farmers would use this option.

Clark Stauffer, Ephrata-area vegetable producer, right, suggested that some person with a truck could set up contracts with farmers to get rid of the plastic. Stauffer and James Garthe, Penn State ag engineer, look through piles of mulch film.

Michael Lee, recycling coordinator at PolyAmerica, said the company recycles 200 million pounds of plastic annually, including the ag plastic wrap bags. The company will pick up, free of charge, a minimum of 30,000 pounds of the plastic that is baled and as clean as possible. The plastic is recycled mostly as construction sheeting and other products, including lawn edging.

However, mulch film is another problem, and companies such as PolyAmerica are working on ways to recycle it.

Another option would be simply to bury the plastic. But creating an on-farm landfill is illegal. And the plastics take decades to decompose. Exactly how long they take to break down in the soil is a question that mystifies scientists.

"Not in our lifetime, anyway," said Garthe. "It certainly would geologically, over time. But once you take it out of direct sunlight, these plastics literally take hundreds of years to decompose."

Burning is the only option for plastics other than greenhouse film.

"It's a major concern," said Garthe, "and it's going to become more of a concern as we get more population density."

Clark Stauffer, vegetable grower from Ephrata, often simply piles the material up and disposes some of it together with his regular curbside trash pickup. Some producers take it directly to a commercial landfill or community incinerator — but that can be expensive.

Some farmers would be willing to pay for proper disposal.

"I would certainly be willing to put more effort into keeping plastics clean and in a position so they could be collected," said Dale Hershey of Hershey Brothers Dairy in Manheim. "It sounds like a workable idea."

One idea suggested by Jeff Stoltzfus, young farmer adviser in New Holland, would be to pay for monthly plastic pickup. A trash compactor could be contracted by a farm group to pick up the trash — in the case of forage users, perhaps once a month.

In the case of a vegetable grower, the hauler could receive the material over a few days in November at the end of the growing season.

Garthe asked Hershey if $75 per pickup could be reasonable for many farmers.

Dale Hershey said, "That's a small amount to pay to get rid of the plastic and all the hassle." Hershey is cooperative because even with burning the plastic at the farm, a small residue remains — creating more headaches for disposal.

He said, "The pickup would have to be often enough and frequent enough to avoid the problem of too much accumulation."

Stoltzfus indicated that negotiating a better tipping fee — the price incinerators charge for dumping the material — could be the key to disposal.

Ag Plastics: Disposal Challenges Mount

"Plastic does burn well," said Stoltzfus. The amount of energy created by the material "would be a desirable product" for community incinerators, "compared to some of the slop they usually get," he said.

Stoltzfus indicated there are preferential rates for disposable materials, including small wood chips and pallets and other items. "If we could bring a load of just plastic, we could perhaps get a reduction in the tipping fee," he said.

Stoltzfus is working closely with growers who sell their fruits and vegetables at the Leola Produce Auction to work on methods of pickup.

"The cost of disposal to the farmer is going to be the challenge," Stoltzfus said. "I'm not sure what the farmers are willing to pay. If it's $50, it's probably not going to be a big deal. If it's $150, it might be."

Clark Stauffer, Ephrata-area vegetable producer, suggested that some person with a truck could set up contracts with farmers to get rid of the plastic.

So mass incineration of plastic at an appropriate facility could be a practical solution.

The Lancaster County Resource Recovery Facility is operated by the Lancaster County Solid Waste Management Authority south of Bainbridge. The facility, constructed in 1988 for $105 million, processes up to 1,200 tons of refuse every day — including plastic.

Timothy J. Breneisen, recycling coordinator, said that farmers can bring in plastic for a fee of $69 per ton. Mulch film must be tied in bundles with baler twine or wire and must not have any loose tape.

"Farmers who bundle up the plastic will make it easier and more efficient for us to handle," said Breneisen.

The incinerator, owned by the Authority and operated by Ogden Martin Systems of Lancaster, Inc., accepts all types of plastic. The material is burned together with other refuse — including paper waste, wet garbage (including vegetable and fruit products), wood, and other materials.

The Authority operates on a $47 million per year budget and sells power generated from steam turbines from garbage to Met Ed — about $1 million worth of electricity each month.

The fee for disposal will affect farmers' options, according to Breneisen. "It all boils down to money, no doubt about it," he said.

At a rough estimate, Lancaster County farms produce about 5,000 tons of ag plastics a year. At a disposal rate of $69 per ton, that adds up to about $345,000 in garbage receipts per year, or about $150,000 worth of revenue for the Authority if all farmers would use this option.

Pennsylvania is not alone in disposal worries. According to James Garthe, Penn State ag engineer, "Florida has a major problem with ag plastics," he said. "They have about 15 million pounds of year of mulch film alone they have to deal with. And they're tearing their hair out just like we are.

"You'd think that they would have some major innovations, but they don't. They're looking at some mobile plastic cleaning equipment, but it's a $200,000 machine."

If you simply let the plastic burn in a barrel or cage, the heat is not captured and energy is wasted.

"In this area, if farmers have to pay for disposal, they're going to be willing to pay," said Stauffer.

"We Americans are very wasteful," said Garthe. Unlike European industries, America doesn't have the "cradle-to-grave" mentality that makes use of recycled materials.

Garthe said, "Cradle-to-grave is where the manufacturer of a product sells you a product to use for its useful life, then is responsible for accepting it back after you're through with it to recycle it into new products. Unforunately in this country, after you buy it, you're responsible for disposing of it, and that disposal is often done wrecklessly."

Much like what PolyAmerica does, Garthe believes that the plastics industry has to bear some of the headaches and come up with some solutions for those who use ag plastics.

"Tell your supplier," Garthe said. "Tell him that you have a problem with ag plastics disposal."

Garthe suggested that farmers write a letter to the suppliers asking for help in coming up with viable, economic solutions.

Garthe said, "I know our society will come up with a solution to these environmental concerns, but it will have to be economically feasible. Everything boils down to economics."

PARADISE (Lancaster Co.) — "We have to stick together," Eric Probst told 400 tobacco sellers and six buyers about 10 minutes into the auction here Monday, when Probst stopped the bidding.

Probst stopped the sale after attempts to coax a selling price of at least $1.75 per pound of Maryland 609 type tobacco out of the buyers proved futile. Mitch "Snake" Ashby from Burlington, N.C. was auctioneer.

At the start of Monday's sale in Paradise, a portion of a row sold to the Paradise Auction for $1.80 per pound. There were about 340,000 pounds on the floor at the beginning of the auction, according to Probst.

and business people illustrating their concerns over extremely - potential low milk prices, $5.00 calves, 18¢ per pound for beef and etc.

At the same time the $3.76 per cwt. decline took place; Federal order #2 Market Adminstrator held a hearing to determine if there was sufficient amounts of milk available to supply the fluid market in Order #2 (N.Y.-N.J. Market).

At the same time that farmers are receiving prices as low as 18¢ per pound for beef animals, we are receiving reports that some slaughter houses are selling the cow hides for $75 per hide.

At the same time U.S.D.A.'s figures illustrate that dairy farmers in the northeast need a price of $17.77 per cwt. to pay their cash cost, to make investments in equipment and buildings and to return a profit to the average dairyman.

In addition to other extreme high costs to our farmers, feed prices that peaked in September have now declined slightly, but by February it will be questionable if 100 lbs. of milk will purchase 100 lbs. of a mixed dairy ration. This would be a disastrous situation.

The $3.76 per cwt. drop in two months is the largest 2 month decline that I can find that ever happened. From December 1989 to February 1990 the starting priced dropped $2.75 per cwt., which was a disaster to dairy farmers.

Pro Ag, along with others has been urging dairy farmers and business people to call Secretary of Agriculture, Dan Glickman, and urge him to take immediate action to floor the Basic Floor Price at $15 per cwt. The Secretary's office can be reached at (202) 720-3631.

However, more steps must be taken. This is why we are calling a Rally of Dairy Farmers and Business People on Wednesday, December 18th, at the Bradley Hall in Columbia Crossroads (Bradford County) beginning at 1:00 p.m. We intend to have several political people present and farmers must demand something to be done.

Also, the time has come when farmers must decide what other steps can be taken to help themselves out of the current mess.

On January 1, 1997 the price of milk to consumers will fall from $2.75 a gallon to $2.31 per gallon and in February will probably go lower. This total decline will be felt entirely by area dairy farmers. I hope to see you on the 18th.

Sellers Look For High Tobacco Prices

growers have been dealing directly with buyers at the farm, getting $1.75 per pound or more. The auction at Paradise was simply a way of "testing the waters," according to one buyer, to establish a feel for a market price.

At Paradise, the auction resumed Wednesday, when top price paid was $1.66 a pound. The average price that day was $1.65 per pound, and 260,000 pounds were sold out of 400,000 on the floor. There were nine buyers at Wednesday's sale.

At Kirkwood on Monday afternoon, Mac Burnette, auctioneer from Clarksville, Va., began selling 150,000 pounds of Maryland Type 609. There were about 100 growers ready to sell and about five buyers present, according to Mike Bailey, owner/operator and sales manager of Farmer's Tobacco Warehouse at the Kirkwood Auction.

Much the same happened at Kirkwood on Monday. Less than 10 minutes into the sale, Mike Bailey failed to coax more than $1.65 out of the buyers. The sale was suspended briefly, then resumed.

In all, on Monday's auction at Kirkwood, a total of 119,000 pounds of tobacco were sold. The highest price paid was $2 per pound, by the warehouse. Average price was $1.66 per pound.

On Wednesday at Kirkwood, 70,000 pounds of tobacco were sold. Top price paid was $1.66 per pound, by the warehouse. Most sold for $1.65 per pound.

"The quality of tobacco this year was really, really good," said Probst of Paradise before the start of Monday's sale. "The demand for the tobacco seems about as extraordinary as it has ever been."

Probst said, "My job is to make the farmer happy and buyer happy."

Worldwide demand for tobacco is still extraordinary, according to the auction manager, and the supplies are as small as they've ever been.

One grower from New Holland who has about nine acres in tobacco said this year was not the best growing year for him, but other growers told him it was the best year ever.

A grower from Narvon was concerned that the buyers could make or break his year and was afraid the price could cause many farmers to pull out from growing next year.

A grower from Rothsville, Carl Schnupp, grew five acres of Maryland Type 609 this year. The total pounds taken from his acres grown, said Schnupp, are down because of overall wet conditions.

And curing, overall, was not one of the best years, said Schnupp. Last year, he was able to obtain more than 2,300 pounds per acre. This year he was able to obtain only about 2,000 pounds per acre.

Also, disease wasn't a problem like he expected, especially blue mold. However, Schnupp indicated that the price would have to reach $1.80 per pound to make up the difference in the lost weight.

Some buyers offered "one-day" deals of $1.75 or even $1.80 a pound in the fields. Schnupp, who has been growing tobacco "since I was a kid," he said, was offered $1.75 per pound on the field but decided to hold off and see what the auction price would be.

He brought 4,700 pounds of tobacco on Monday morning to Paradise to see if the price would hit $1.80 per pound.

An Amish farmer from Upper Leacock grew four acres of tobacco this year, all Maryland Type 609. He said that he had one offer of $1.60 per pound in the field and sold it. He said he attended the Paradise Auction out of curiosity to see what the top price would be.

Last year at the start of the auction season, top price paid by the warehouse at Paradise was $1.30 per pound. Average price was $1.25 per pound.

Overall, last year the average price at Paradise topped out at $1.40 per pound. Average price last year at Kirkwood was $1.38 per pound.

The county's number one cash crop still acts as the annual "mortgage burner" for many producers. In Lancaster County, there were 7,150 acres of tobacco harvested in 1995, yielding 1,985 pounds per acre for a total of 14,192,500 pounds. The value was $20.284 million, according to the Pennsylvania Agricultural Statistics Service.

In Paradise, the season continues with an auction every Mon-

Northeast DHIA-Milk Lab Receives Perfect Score

Every year, all DHIA Milk Analysis Laboratories undergo a rigorous inspection by the National DHIA Quality Certification staff. National DHIA QC rates such areas as the condition of the facilities, laboratory safety, and staff training. In addition, they look at how the lab performs on the monthly unknown samples for the Infra-red analyzers and the Somatic Cell counters (a process where the milk lab machines analyze unknowns to determine how accurate their readings are), and they evaluate internal documentation which includes instrument calibrations and pre-calibration procedures.

Currently the Northeast DHIA milk lab runs two shifts and processes over 15000 samples daily. In addition to fat, protein, and somatic cell analysis, the lab also provides milk urea nitrogen testing and performs a substantial amount of producer payment testing for other laboratories and milk cooperatives.

The Northeast Dairy Herd Improvement Association currently serves over 3800 members in the nine state area of New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New Hampshire, Maine and Vermont.

Traditionally one of the highest rated milk labs in the country, the northeast DHIA milk lab this year received a perfect score of 100/100. In a letter to milk lab manager John Malaney, National DHIA Director of Operations, Paul Miller writes "Please accept my personal congratulations for a job well done and extend my congratulations to your staff ... Your commitment to providing a quality service to DHIA dairymen is apparent in the fact the you continuously meet the high expectations of DHIA members." Paul Sauve, laboratory evaluate summed up the performance of Northeast DHIA's milk lab in one word, "Excellent."

The Voice of American Agriculture Must Be Heard...

Dear Friend,

You may be noticing something different about DuPont. There's a new focus in our communications, and the focus is on you. We listened to your concerns, and we heard you ask us to help the non-farming public better understand and appreciate the contributions you make to your communities, our nation and the world. We heard you talk about dedication to family, land and community, and we understand you'd like some help in managing time, risk and profitability. We put these learnings together and came to a clear and concise conclusion: for us to be successful, we must focus our attention and our communications on issues and concerns you've told us will help you be more successful.

We are running new kinds of ads on television and radio and in newspapers and farming publications. Rather than focusing only on our brands of crop protection products, we are also discussing farm issues, problems and solutions. We'll also be offering you new ways to share your thoughts with both farming and non-farming groups. Watch for this new look and please let us know what you think.

We're excited about these changes, and we sincerely hope you will find these new initiatives to be informative and entertaining, but most of all supportive of you and your fellow farmers. We know we must continue listening, so please don't hesitate to tell me, and every DuPonter you meet, what's on your mind. You can begin doing so by calling our toll-free number, 1-888-6DUPONT (1-888-638-7668).

Happy holidays and much success in the coming new year to you and your family from the people of DuPont and our families.

Sincerely,

Yale L. Schalk

Consuming Thoughts

by

Fay Strickler

Penn State Extension Home Economist For Berks Co.

Christmas is a day when families traditionally get together to eat and renew connections and continue many family traditions. During this holiday season families may want to make a commitment and/or make a New Year's resolution to support the idea of eating meals together the rest of the year.

A recent survey conducted by the National Pork Producers Council revealed that while nearly three fourths of those surveyed think eating dinner together is important, only 59% eat dinner as a family five or more times a week. Those with young children under the age of 6 were most likely to eat together.

Dinner time together can be a time for family members to learn about each others activities that day. This is important, especially for young children. The things you discuss at the dinner table help young children get ready to function in the outside world.

Practice things like giving each child and adult a chance to tell a small story based on what happened to them that day. This teaches language skills and the idea of listening to other people. Teach them to share the spotlight but also to be confident in themselves. As a family, you can establish basic rules on manners to use at the table. Manners are a lifetime skill that is an important tool for use in later relationships.

Teach children to listen to others by asking them to repeat the story told by someone else at the table. Gently correct any major omissions. A good listener can be a good story teller too. Good manners and listening skills help children work with others in teams, a valuable skill for jobs they will hold later in life.

Another way to help children appreciate meals together is to let them have a role in preparing the meal. Even small children can help. They can get cans from shelves, place napkins on the table and help someone count the silverware. Teach them the importance to touching silverware only on the handles - never on the surface that makes contact with the food or mouth. All of these small tasks help teach children simple counting and reading skills, as well as food safety skills.

As the parent you may want to include fruits and vegetables in the meal to help everyone meet their 5 a Day goal - 2 fruits and 3 vegetables a day.

What's a serving of fruits and vegetables? A serving is:

- 1 medium fruit or ½ cup small or cut-up fruit
- ¾ cup 100% fruit juice
- ¼ cup dried fruit (such as raisins, dates, apricots)
- ½ cup raw or cooked vegetables
- 1 cup raw leafy vegetables (such as lettuce, spinach, kale)
- ½ cup cooked beans or peas (kidney beans, lentils)

Here is a recipe that children can help prepare. It's a tasty salad that helps your family meet the 5 a Day goal.

Golden Fruit Salad
(an official 5 a Day recipe)

1 golden delicious apple, cored and sliced
1 red delicious apple, cored and sliced
1 banana, peeled and sliced
½ cup red grapes, halves and seeded
Orange yogurt dressing
Lettuce

Combine all fruits; mix well. Serve on lettuce lined salad plate with orange yogurt dressing. Makes 3 servings. This is an official 5 a Day recipe.

Orange yogurt dressing: Combine 6½ cups plain low fat yogurt, 2-3 teaspoons, orange juice and dash nutmeg; mix well.

Nurtitional analysis per serving; calories 138; fiber 4 g; cholesterol 2 mg. Percent calories from: protein 8%; carbohydrate 84%; fat 8%.

Choo Choo Barn Kicks Off 35th Anniversary

STRASBURG (Lancaster Co.) — On Thanksgiving Day 1961, the Groff family moved their growing model train layout - which father George Groff began in 1945 - from the basement of their home to the Choo Choo Barn in Strasburg.

Thirty-five years later, the Choo Choo Barn has grown from a 500-square-foot layout with six trains and six animated scenes to become one of America's largest and best-known model train layouts. It's 1,700 square feet of fantasy, in miniature!

The Choo Choo Barn is renowned throughout America for its animated model train displays. Across its 1,700 square feet, a Lancaster County in miniature unfolds. The continually-operating displays feature seventeen model trains, 650 feet of O-gauge tracks, thousands of figures and vehicles, and 130 animated scenes such as baseball games, an Amish barn-raising, a fire company to dowse a smoking building, and a Memorial Day parade.

The 35th anniversary year begins with the seventh annual "Canned Food Fridays," held on December 6, 13 and 20. Visitors who present a non-perishable food item on those dates are granted free admission and can visit with Santa. The 35th anniversary celebration will continue through December 31, 1997.

Leaden gray skies hover overhead, sinking ominously lower with each passing minute.

A damp mist hangs heavy in the air, unseen by the eye, but thick enough to feel on your face. Fingers of cold poke past your collar, around your ears, chilling your hands even through a pair of soft gloves.

Calves huddle toward the backs of their open-fronted hutches, snuggling down in thick, insulating beds of fresh straw and satisified by bellies filled with bottles of warm milk. The heifer herd piles together beyond the gate, gathering warmth from one another, their backs toward the direction of the light, but biting, breeze.

And at the back of the dairy barn, the "girls" wander down from the feed bunk, gazing in over the gate, silently announcing their willingness to return to the newly-sawdust-bedded stalls.

"Hey, we're waiting. What's the hold up?" their big, dark, long-lashed eyes seem to plead. Good heavens, they've been outside just an hour or so. But, it's that kind of a raw morning. And then it begins.

Sometimes it starts softly, fat, wife flakes casually wafting their way to the ground. A delicate-type snow, gentle, quiet, calling attention to its prettiness as it begins whitening the grass, the pine boughs, the tops of the split rail fence.

Other times, the gray clouds open overhead and the snow arrives with an "attitude."

It may begin as sleet, a rain of tiny ice balls, tick ... tick ... tick ... ticking against the windowpanes, announcing its intention to ruin the day of construction workers, highway crews, and schoolbus drivers whose schedules will be altered before the hour is up.

The ice balls sting against your bare face, following the cold air down the back of your neck and making you wish you'd donned a heavier hat and something with a wide collar. Remaining outside barn chores are finished as quickly as possible. The clutch of heifers huddles together even more tightly, then makes a beeline for the feeder when the gate finally swings open.

Another gate is swung for the cows to return to the dairy barn. And you'd best get quickly out of the way, because they come with the closest thing to a stampede that our bunch of docile, normally plodding cows will ever attain in speed.

A white sheet is already covering the pavement of the road past the house and the neighbords on the hill are barely visible in the thickening haziness of the hissing ice balls transforming over to a steady, wind-blown snow.

Later in the seaseon of winter, this beginning of a snowy day may set us to grumbling and dreaming of dandelions and daffodils. But, when such a morning comes just ahead of Christmas, it stirs a seasonal excitement in all but the most fervent anti-snow scrooges.

This is a day to wrap those gifts still languishing in their bags in the spare room upstairds. To finish addressing the last of the greeting cards still stacked on the kitchen counter.

Such a day taunts one to bake cookies, to concoct that special holiday candy, or to bake a batch of fresh, wonderfully-smelling homemade bread. To get some pine or cinnamon or bayberr-scented candles out on the tables, tuck a few pine boughs around their feet and light them when evening rolls around.

(Note: This is NOT a day to run to the supermarket, because the rest of the world will be making that snow! ... snow! ... it's the end of the world! ... emergency trip to stock up on milk and bread and other food necessities like tortilla chips and salsa.)

But, hey, it's the holiday season. Let it snow!

Kids Learn About Holidays Around The World

DAYTON, Ohio — 'Tis the perfect season for school children to learn about different customs and holidays around the world.

And thanks to a 4-H in the Classroom program provided by the Montgomery County office of Ohio State University Extension, Dayton-area teachers have a ready, free resource that provides teaching materials on Hanukkah, Kwanzaa, Christmas, and various traditions of these celebrations around the world.

4-H in the Classroom programs take science-based, hands-on 4-H projects and modify them for a classroom setting. Teachers in many parts of Ohio can "check out" kits from local Extension offices that provide all the necessary resource material, equipment, handouts and supplies. Holidays Around the World is a spin-off from these science-based programs available to teachers in Montgomery County.

"Teachers were asking for a program that covered all perspectives of the season," said Andrea Bowlin, the youth at risk specialist at the Montgomery County office. "It seemed to be a natural progression of the partnership started with other 4-H in the Classroom programs."

The Holidays Around the World kit isn't fancy. It moves from classroom to classroom in a green, 2-foot-by-1-foot Rubbermaid container. But inside are the interactive tools teachers need to teach third through sixth graders about religious holidays and customs of the season.

There are templates to make a paper dreydl as students study Hanukkah, a kinara - a candleholder containing seven candles - that is the centerpiece of Kwanzaa celebrations, and a crown worn by people passing out Christmas gifts in Sweden. There's also a globe so students can identify the various countries around the world, Bowlin said.

"Any teacher could pull together the same materials I have," Bowlin said. "But teachers today are time- and resource-strapped. They asked for this program, and I think it's important to meet their needs."

The 2,000-plus Dayton-area students who are part of the 4-H in the Classroom school enrichment programs also have access to all of the 4-H activities, Bowlin said. Any student can go to 4-H camp, participate in the fair or join a youth group.

A variety of 4-H in the Classroom programs are offered in many counties throughout Ohio. The ones provided in Montgomery County include Rockets Away, a rocketry science program; Fishy Science; Chick Embryology; Insects; Holidays Around the World; and Manners. The latter two are only available in Montgomery County.

From Sheep to Snowmen At Shady Pines Farm

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

FELTON (York Co.) — Fleeces grow long through this December cold on the backs of the two dozen Border Leicester sheep grazing the hillside pasture at Shady Pines Farm.

But none of the fleece is longer or more lustrous than that forming the full, curly beard on the paper-mache and bisque face of a large Victorian Santa welcoming visitors to Shady Pines' own wool shop.

The shop is located near Felton, in the lovely old farm home of the Mancuso family, Debbie and husband, Pat, and daughters Janelle, 18, and Melissa, 16. It showcases an array of items created by Debbie and her talented friends from the raw wool of the flock.

Victorian Santas, with their lush, thick beards of raw wool, are only one of several Christmas creations featured by Debbie during her holiday-season hours at the shop. She crafts her Santas in a variety of sizes, each with its own personal look and hand-crafted facial features, using a technique of applying a bisque finish over a paper-mache base. Various sizes of wooden Santas, each sporting a full, curly beard of wool, also peer out from points around the cozy shop.

Another popular seasonal seller is Debbie's collection of whimsical snowmen fashioned from graduated sizes of white balls of wool. And, in a display hutch nearby, halo-topped angels appear to almost float on their flowing robes crafted from fluffy, carded wool sparkling with a dusting of gold sprinkles.

The shop is tastefully done in a rustic look, with baskets and crates filled to overflowing with fat skeins of yarn hand-dyed by Debbie in a rainbow of rich colors. Wool and related products are attractively displayed in every nook and cranny. Even a framed lithograph on the wall depicts sheep.

Elegant in long, curly-wool beard and green-velvet robe trimmed in fur, this 40-inch tall Victorian Santa greets visitors to Shady Pines Farm's wool shop. Debbie Mancuso crafts the one-of-a-kind Christmas figures and accessorized this St. Nick with his satin mittens around a gnarled wooden walking stick and gold toy pack brimming with miniature gifts and a tiny doll.

Her variety of hand-crafted sweaters include unique designs, like those featuring kittens or dogs, and one style done by computerized knitting machine in an intricate pattern of interwoven sheep-shapes. Hats, scarves, mittens, socks, crocheted wool hair bows, and warm slippers of felted wool are tastefully displayed with cuddly, stuffed toy sheep, miniature hobby horses sporting curly-wool manes, yarn dyes, and items for the spinner.

There is even a welcoming committee of sorts in the form of the Mancuso's pet Border Collie, Mandy, who greets visitors at the end of the walk, tail wagging in an effort to "herd" them toward the shop's front door.

Shady Pines Farm's shop is an outgrowth of a commitment by the Mancuso family toward helping others, not just during the holiday season, but year-round. Debbie became interested in sheep several years ago, but the family's home included just an acre of land and lacked the space for a flock. When they moved to their ten-acre farm near Felton, with plenty of barn and pasture space, her dream of raising sheep became reality.

"If it weren't for the people we've met in the sheep business, we would be nowhere," Debbie says in praise of the support system of other local wool producers and crafters. "We must share what we do as an industry; I don't want to lose that."

"We want to be an active member of the community," affirms Debbie, who assists with educational events at local schools, gives sheep-related demonstrations and, during the Christmas season, often has sheep starring in local live-nativity presentations.

With a dedication to sharing the experience of animals and farm life with others, she has become involved in outreach efforts of the York Helping Hands for the Homeless organization.

To help raise funds for the non-profit York Helping Hands, Shady Pines Farm annually sponsors a Fun Festival at the farm, featuring educational activities like sheep shearing and country-related games. Participants at the annual mid-September festival on the farm enjoy seasonal activities, stuffing scarecrows and painting pumpkins. York Wildlife organization has presented programs on owls and birds, and members of the 4-H Seeing Eye® Puppy club have given demonstrations with their project dogs.

"The shop exists to help support maintaining the sheep, so we have them here to share with others," Debbie explains. "It helps to cover the expenses of feed and caring for them."

Every year on the first weekend in May, much of the shop's inventory is packed up and hauled south to Maryland's Howard County Fairgrounds for the state's popular Sheep and Wool Festival. Debbie has been a participant in the noted regional shepherding and craft show for several years. In fact, when the shop closes from regular hours after the holidays, she immediately goes to work replenishing her inventory of wool-crafted items in preparation for the thousands of visitors that annually flock to the Maryland festival.

Lambs from the Mancuso's flock of Border Leicesters nibble at the treat of grain Debbie offers them.

Debbie crafts her popular Christmas-season snowmen from balls of white wool.

In addition to the sheep, Shady Pines is home to a few horses, one donkey, and four dogs. A devoted animal lover, Debbie works part-time at the Seven Valleys Animal Hospital, in addition to looking after the Mancuso's own barnyard residents and keeping her shop filled with warm and wooly gifts.

Shady Pines Farm and shop is located at R1, Box 12637 Mt. Olivet Rd., 17322, approximately 10 minutes from Exit 1 of Interstate 83. For more information, Debbie Mancuso may be contacted at (717) 244-8353.

Angels fashioned by Debbie are delicate and fragile in appearance but made of rugged, durable carded wool.

Holiday Tidbits

The holidays are a time for togetherness. Time spent together is one of joys of the holiday season. Whether it's distant relatives gathering together or a reunion of long-time friends, the occasion generally centers around food.

Lots of tidbits, nibbles, hors d'oeuvres, appetizers or, whatever you prefer to call them, are in vogue for holiday entertainment. Favorite family recipes are often at the core, but most hostesses and hosts want something delightfully unique with guaranteed good taste. Here are some tried and true recipes from our readers to add to your holiday celebrations.

TRIPLE CHEESE BALL

3 ounces cream cheese, softened
2 teaspoons prepared horseradish
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
½ teaspoon seasoned salt
1½ cups shredded Cheddar cheese
1½ cups shredded Swiss cheese
½ cup chopped parsley
Assorted crackers

Beat together cream cheese in large mixing bowl until fluffy. Beat in horseradish, Worcestershire sauce, and salt. Gradually add shredded cheeses; beat until smooth. Shape mixture into a ball. Chill 2 to 3 hours to allow flavors to blend. Remove and let stand at room temperature about 1 hour. Just before serving, roll in parsley. Serve with assorted crackers.

Crackers are always a holiday appetizer, why don't you add a little something else such as a triple cheese ball?

Milk-based drinks are a great alternative drink for the holidays. They add nutrients found in all real dairy products to a great tasting, non-alcoholic drink. Every year my family uses these punches at large family get togethers or simply for a special evening with friends. The holidays are a special time for family and friends, so make them safe by choosing to serve non-alcoholic drinks.

"Absolutely nothing substitutes the taste and performance of real butter," said Beatrice Ojakangas, author of more than a dozen cookbooks. "After 35 years, I can't imagine baking without real butter."

Here is her recipe for Butter Cookie Pretzels. For additional butter recipes that can be enjoyed year-round, write to the American Dairy Association, P.O. Box 760, Rosemont, IL 60018-7760 or visit the ButterNet site at http://www.realbutter.com.

Ida's Notebook

by

Ida Risser

We did something different the other night. With our son and grandson, we attended an "Owl Prowl." It was held at the Chickies Rock County Park near Columbia.

I was amazed at the number of people in attendance. There were many, many children who sat on the floor to hear the lecture on owls. A tape recording had been made of their calls. We heard the wailing call of the ten-inch screech owl. Next was the long-legged barn owl with its heart-shaped face.

Two other kinds were mentioned. The Great Horned owl's call is a deep, penetrating hoot which is repeated five to seven times. The Barred owl can grow to be 20 inches high.

Although, we had no luck with calling owls within range by using the taped calls, we did have an interesting night. It was a cold night spent with other nature lovers.

I've put birdseed out in the feeder that our other son and grandson made many years ago. We hope to attract some common species such as chickadees, tufted titmice, nuthatches and downy woodpeckers. These birds search in our woodlands for insects and their eggs. Nuthatches are the only North American birds that can walk down a tree trunk head first. I also learned that woodpeckers have long, sticky tongues which they push into insect tunnels in trees as they search for food.

For a long time, I have been surprised at the number of public parks in Pennsylvania. We have visited most of the ones in the eastern part of our state and always they are almost deserted. People do not seem to take advantage of the wonderful open space that is available.

¼ cup white Karo syrup
⅓ cup milk
1 tablespoon butter

Cook until dissolved. Add ¼ cup peanut butter. Beat until smooth. May store in refrigerator.

ANSWER — For the reader who wanted the "Joys of Jell-O Dessert Book," call 1-800-431-1001, Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m.-4 p.m. EST. Thanks to Elaine Young, Quakertown, for sending this phone number.

ANSWER — Sandy Gutshall of Harrisburg wrote that her non-profit group is interested in making apple butter and applesauce in the large open kettle. She wanted to know the ingredients and the time and people it takes. Thanks to Mildred Miller of Hershey who writes that her folks cooked the apple butter most of the day. It takes several people to peel the apples and several for stirring while cooking.

Apple Butter

In a 30-gallon copper kettle, pour 30 gallons of cider and boil it down to half the amount.

Add 3½ bushels peeled apples, cut into pieces. Boil down mixture until it's half the amount.

Add 1 tablespoon butter to prevent the mixture from boiling over. Stir a few times.

Add 25 pounds granulated sugar and stir constantly until finished.

Test to see if mixture is finished cooking by placing a small amount on a saucer. Run a spoon through the apple butter, if it remains separated, it is finished cooking.

May add a few drops of sassafras oil if desired.

Thanks to Mary Lockard, Columbia, who sent in a recipe that makes 12 gallon.

Apple Butter

20 gallons sweet cider
8 gallons apples
15 pounds sugar
1 tablespoon cinnamon oil, optional

Use a large 30 to 40 gallon copper kettle. Heat cider and cook until it is reduced to half that amount. Pare and slice apples in eights. Add apples and cook until soft, stirring frequently. Add sugar and stir constantly to prevent burning.

Remove a small amount and cool. If it is of good consistency to spread when cooled, it is ready to remove from fire.

If desired, add oil of cinnamon and mix well.

Mary Lockard also sent in a recipe to make apple butter in the oven for those who want a smaller and easier recipe.

Apple Butter
Oven recipe

7 pounds apples or 16 cups sauce
3 pounds brown sugar
1 cup apple cider
2 tablespoons cinnamon or 1 cup crushed pineapple

Cook apples until soft. Put through a sieve. Add remaining ingredients and bake in 350 degree oven for 3 hours. Stir occasionally. Pour into jars and seal. Makes 5 quarts.

Hamburger BBQ

2 pounds ground beef
1 small onion
2 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons mustard
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 cup catsup

Saute onion. Brown ground beef, add remaining ingredients and simmer about 15 minutes.

Couple's Communication - A Gift To Last A Lifetime

"I just wish you'd listen to me!" How often have you said that to your spouse? Or vice versa? Communication is the cornerstone of any relationship, and listening is one aspect of communication!

Often times we think of communicating as telling - telling someone something either verbally or non-verbally. The message is one part of the communication equation - but there also exits the sender and the receiver.

It's these two components that tend to get us in trouble. Even after 16 years of marriage, my husband and I still need to regroup at times to be sure we understand each other. Keep in mind the sender and receiver are humans with emotions, preoccupations, their own agenda, and their personal interpretation of what's being sent and received!

With the spirit of giving in the air, let's take a look at the gift of enriching your relationship by learning some basic communication skills.

I. Taking Responsiblity

First, what about taking responsiblity. One aspect of healthy communication is taking responsibility for your own needs, feelings, wants, and desires. "I" messages can be helpful in doing this. The advantage of taking personal responsibility for what needs to be communicated is that our partner is less likely to be put on the defensive. We all know how poorly we react and respond when we feel we've been challenged. When a "you" statement is used, the speaker is often assuming the spouse knows what the other person is thinking, feeling or intending. "I" messages are more helpful.

In an "I" statement, you remark on the act or behavior, how you feel as a result, and the impact on you. So, it is ...

- description
- feelings
- consequences to you.

That's it. Here are a few examples:

"You" Statement: "You're late again! Why didn't you phone?

"I" Statement: "When you come home late from work and don't phone, (act or behavior) I feel hurt because it seems I'm not as important as you job, and I feel scared because I don't know if you've been in an accident or you're alright (how you feel). As a result, I'm not sure whether to hold dinner or not, I don't know what to tell the kids, and I have trouble settling down for the evening (consequences to you)."

Which would you rather hear? The first is likely to put you on the defensive. The second, will hopefully help you to empathize with your spouse.

"You" Statement: "We never go out anymore. All you ever want to do on weekends is watch TV or rent a video."

"I" Statement: "I've noticed we're spending more and more weekend time at home (act or behavior). This is frustrating to me (feeling) because I like to get out of the house and do things like walks, dancing, and exploring new places (consequences to you)."

Chances are, in the first example, your spouse would have been thinking about all of the times you didn't stay at home, times you did go out, instead of listening to your concerns. In the second, more information is provided, and your spouse is more likely to being understanding your concern(s).

"I" messages can also be used when you want to compliment or thank your spouse. For example, your spouse has just done something special for you: made your favorite meal, booked a weekend at your favorite get-away, thrown a birthday party. The "I" message compliment is more powerful.

"You" Message: "Thanks honey! You really put yourself out."

"I" Message: "When you made dinner for me last night, I was touched. I felt loved by you (feeling). It lets me know you care (consequences to you).

At first, "I" messages, like most other communication techniques seem awkward - not what you're used to. Just remember that all communication styles are learned; there are not natural styles. With some practice, you can make this a method that works for you, and for your marriage.

(PS. "I" messages aren't just for couples. They work with children and with other adults as well).

II. Listening To Understand

Of course, the second portion is listening to understand. Just as it's important to take some personal responsibility when you speak, it's also important to be responsible when you listen. You can choose to react, or you can choose to listen to understand what your spouse is saying.

When you listen to understand, it means that instead of rehearsing your response as your partner speaks, you listen, trying to understand his/her perspective. This doesn't mean that you have to agree with your spouse. You just need to understand. (If you don't agree, you'll need to try using a conflict resolution strategy - after your partner feels understood.)

This is not easy for most of us to do. We're used to preparing our defense, or preparing for a debate.

When your partner has said what she or he needs to say, the best way to let him/her know you understand is to summarize in your own words. This is not parroting back, but using your own words, to let your partner know you understand. If you haven't quite got it right, your partner can clarify for you until you're both clear on what she/he is trying to say.

Some examples:

A: "I've got nothing to wear!"

B: "Yes you do ... you've got a closet full of clothes! You're always shopping."

A: "I'm always shopping? What about that pair of designer shoes you bought last week?"

B: "Oh yeah? Well at least I didn't ..."

This couple didn't get very far. Person B certainly has no idea what A was saying. They both just reacted. Let's try again.

A: "I've got nothing to wear!"

B: "Are you saying that you don't have anything you think is appropriate to wear to this wedding?"

A: "Yes, that's it. I'm feeling self conscious about this wedding, and I want to look my best."

Another example of listening to understand:

A: "When you come home late from work and don't phone, I feel hurt because it seems I'm not as important as your job, and I feel scared because I don't know if you've been in an accident or you're alright. As a result, I'm not sure whether to hold dinner or not, I don't know what to tell the kids, and I have trouble settling down for the evening."

B: "It sounds like when I'm late and I don't phone, it creates some problems for you. You feel hurt and neglected, you're scared because you don't know what has happened to me, you don't know what to do with dinner, or tell the kids, and it ruins your evening. (Don't apologize yet, or defend yourself.)

A: "Yeah, that's about it."

B: "I'm sorry, I never thought about how it impacts you. It's not easy for me either. Could we talk about this another time when we are both able to discuss it."

Person B chose not to defend him/herself, but instead listened to understand his/her partner. Chances are that person A smiled and breathed a sigh of relief when she/he realized their spouse understood what she/he was saying and feeling. They are wise to take a break until they are both ready to discuss the issue further.

Just like using "I" messages, listening to understand isn't easy. But give it a try. You'll notice a real impact on your relationship.

If you're interested in learning more, check with your community college, church, or family services. And here's to a gift to last a lifetime.

Ephrata Cloister Offers History Class

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — Explore the roles of women in early Pennsylvania as history comes to life as part of the Ephrata Cloister Christmas Candlelight Tours, December 26 through 29. These special first-person tours transport visitors back in time to the mid-18th century with local students portraying members of the Ephrata Cloister, one of America's earliest communal societies. Within the original structures, guests will discover the stories of several colonial Pennsylvania women, each with choices and struggles which contributed to the development of the nation's heritage. Tours begin at 6:30 p.m. and continue every half-hour until 9 p.m. Space is limited and reservations are required.

Ephrata Cloister was founded in 1732 by the German religious leader Conrad Beissel. Gathered in unique medieval style buildings, the community consisted of celibate Brothers and Sisters, and a married congregation of families. The life of the celibate members was characterized by severe discipline and self-denial of comfort. At the zenith of the community in the 1740s and 1750s, about 300 members worked and worshiped at the Cloister. Following the death of the last celibate member in 1813 the married congregation formed the German Seventh Day Baptist Church. Members continued to live and worship at the Cloister until 1934.

In 1941, the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania acquired the historic site and began a program of restoration and interpretation. Today, nine original buildings are part of a 25-acre complex open for visitors daily.

Tickets for the Christmas Candlelight Tours are $6 for adults, $5 for Senior Citizens age 60 and over and $4 for children age 6 through 12. Limited space is available on each tour and reservations are required. By special arrangement with The Restaurant at Doneckers a dinner and tour package is available by calling (717) 738-9502. Ephrata Cloister is located in Ephrata Borough, Lancaster County on Route 322 at the intersection with Route 272. The historic site is open Monday through Saturday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sunday from noon to 5 p.m. Individuals wishing more information, reservations, or individuals with disabilities who need special assistance should call (717) 733-6600.

Why do owls have such round faces?
Those fluffy, bowl-shaped feathers help these nighttime hunters hear their prey. You see, an owl doesn't hear better than people; it just makes the most of the hearing it has.
That's where the ruff comes in — the ruff is what our zoologist friends call feathers around the owl's round face. The ruff channels sound into the owl's ears, which are located just to the side of its eyes. The next time you watch a football game on television, look for people along the sidelines holding what look like little satellite dishes. Those dishes funnel sound to TV microphones, just like the ruff funnels sounds to the owl's ears.
An owl also has uneven ears — one ear opening points up, while the other points down — so it can instantly tell the direction of a sound.
Here's what happens: say the sound of a scurrying mouse reaches the owl's left ear first. Because it takes a split second longer for the sound to reach the right ear, the owl knows the mouse is to the left. The uneven ears mean the volume gets softer by the time the sound reaches the right ear, too. The difference in loudness tells the owl if the mouse is up or down, which is really helpful when it goes to find dinner.
Once an owl determines where the sound is coming from, it points its head and talons in that direction, silently grabs the mouse — and enjoys a tasty meal!
Scientifically yours, Twig

Toy Suggestions

HONESDALE (Wayne Co.) — Walk into any toy store or toy department and you will find hundreds of toys. With such a selection to choose from, most of us ask ourselves, "Where on earth do I begin?" The following ideas for toys, grouped according to age, are suggestions you might want to consider. It is important to take into account not only the child's age, but also his interests and abilities as he grows older.

Babies Under 18 Months: Toys should attract the baby's attention. Select toys that baby can look at, feel, chew, hold, and, of course, drop. These toys should be washable and definitely nonbreakable, with no sharp edges or small parts that can come off or be detached such as some wheels on toy trucks or eyes on stuffed animals. As the baby begins to move about, select toys that will move with him, either pulled or pushed. Other suggestions are toys that attach securely to the crib, large cloth blocks or plastic beads, picture books, chime or squeak toys, stacking or pounding toys, and cloth dolls.

18 Months to 3 Years: Select movable toys that the child can manipulate. Again, avoid toys with small parts, since the child will still place objects in his mouth. Sturdy toys are a must at this age, but shy away from overly large or heavy toys. Sound-producing toys and toys that allow the older 2-year-old to play Mom or Dad are in order. Introduce simple puzzles. For active play, try a low-built, wide-based three or four wheeled riding toy, as well as a wagon-type toy that the child can push or pull and load down with other toys. Old-fashioned dolls and child-powered cars and trucks will delight the 2-year-old.

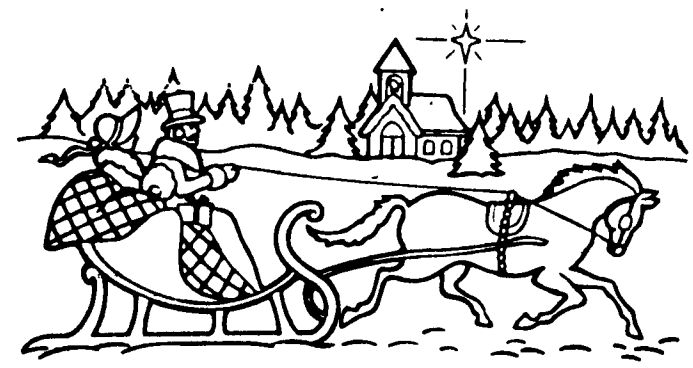
3 to 4 Years: Play for this age child has become vigorous and he/she is beginning to be interested in creative activites. "Make believe" is a big part of play. Select toy telephones, puppets, doll buggies, toy dishes, more advanced puzzles, large crayons and big sheets of paper, blunt scissors and finger paints, farm or village or other play sets, pull-string or friction-powered toys.

4 to 6 Years: This is the dramatic or creative age. Interest in reading and writing will begin and grow. The child will be moving rapidly at this age and his/her attention span is lengthening. Toys with moving parts and toys that are designed to be taken apart by the child will provide hours of play. Some suggestions are doll houses, construction toys, paints, jump ropes, larger-wheeled toys, simple games, easy to read books with large print and pleasing pictures, pretend money, story records, learn-to-tell toys, sleds and dress-up costumes.

It is impossible to make a list of toys that will fit each child. Because children have different abilities and interests and skills, you must decide which toy is best for your child. Observe the child at play. You will notice that your child, like most every other child, will play in different ways. Some play will be very active, some quiet, some imaginative and creative. At times your child will engage in social play with other children, while at other times he or she will be involved in construction or building or even scientific play.

In choosing the toy that is best for your developing child, try to consider each of these different types of play. If you are selecting more than one toy, think of the way in which the child will play with each toy. One father noticed that his son was fascinated with a toy car. That year the child received no less than six cars and trucks! He was obviously overloaded with any one kind of toy and his "fleet" went unused for the most part, much to the father's disappointment.

One final note: Children can be overloaded with toys in another way. This too frequently happens during the approaching holiday time. Many parents and other adults spend too much money on toys and frequently buy too many. It is far better, from the child's standpoint, to give him/her a couple of well-selected toys at the holiday time. Then, in a few months, the child will have matured a bit more and be ready for another well-selected toy. And in another few months, another toy. he or she will enjoy them more that way, and will learn more as well.



Just Say "No"

Only 11 days until Christmas ... aaagh! If life hasn't picked up and gotten crazy for you during the last few days, consider yourself fortunate. Two weeks ago I asked my husband if we could host a caroling party at our house. He almost told me "No." He said that it would be too late to send out invitations. I wanted to have it on December 23. To me that was almost a month's notice, plenty of time.

For many of our friends, the holidays become so jam-packed with obligations that families have little time to reflect on the original messages of the season. What does it say about our lives if our schedules are so filled a month in advance that we can't participate in a caroling party? We're a busy culture, and that's not always healthy.

Although I didn't want my husband to tell me, "No," I couldn't have the caroling party, I do appreciate the courage that it takes to turn down invitations and to simplify routines in order to capture a tiny bit of "peace on earth." Are you making some of those choices? I hope so.

Choices should be made to cut down on "tasks" in order to spend time on relationships. Our communities and families are starved for a sense of relationship. At a recent program, one woman told me how her husband began a gift-giving tradition with his grandchildren that helped to reverse the trend of isolation. Instead of spending hours in his workshop making a bench or playhouse for his grandchildren, he would cut up the lumber and load it in a big bag or box along with some of the paint supplies, add a note telling the child when he/she could come to his house to work with him on the project.

What a neat idea. The time spent with Grandpa would be treasured one-on-one, special time. In what way could you simplify your gift-giving by writing IOUs for time together with others?

Other families make different choices to streamline the holiday season. One friend of mine called people, inviting them to an open house instead of purchasing and sending out eleborate invitations. Another family opted for a buffet dinner instead of a full-course, sit-down meal. One couple sends cards only to their out-of-town friends. Some are just being brave and turning down all but the most special social invitations. Take some time this week to recall the things that you have said "No" to this month. Give yourself a pat on the back for each one. Then be sure to redeem that "saved" time by relaxing with your family or those people most dear to you.

Sit around the Christmas tree and recall stories. Do the ornaments remind you of friends? Special events? If you're in the kitchen, ask other family members to join you there. Convert the baking into a family activity. Talk with each other. Here are a few starter questions:

"What is one of the most memorable gifts you ever received?"

"What was one of your favorite gifts to give?"

"If you could name one tradition/activity that you wouldn't want to miss during this season, what would it be?"

If you feel really guilty about turning down invitations or saying "No" in December and say "Yes" for January or February. Can you hold the office "party" then? Wouldn't it be enjoyed more? Can the kids put on a special production or sing music for the community in February?

Take time to challenge the holiday expectations around you. Protect special times with family and friends. Find moments of quiet and create moments of worry-free fun! Happy holidays.

Lebanon Holiday Program 'Aglitter' With Ideas

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — Almost everyone wants a good old-fashioned Christmas — a house aglow with holly and lights, filled with the aroma of freshly baked cookies and breads, presents stashed beneath the tree, the joyful strains of Christmas carols, and time and energy to enjoy family and guests.

But, reality for most people is that there is neither enough time, money nor energy to create the holiday of their dreams.

Flexibility to adjust to a celebration suitable to the '90's lifestyles yet in keeping with tradition is in order.

To garner ideas for a traditional and transitional holiday, about 1,400 people attended the Lebanon Holiday Program held over a three-day span recently.

Floral designer Dennis Mellott returned to the annual program to present fun and finess in holiday decorating. He taught participants how to make snow-covered trees from Styrofoam processed in a blender for snow that is attached to miniature trees made from pine boughs, how to use deer antlers in a holiday floral arrangement, and how to string oranges and limes for a contemporary arrangement.

Mary Laeger-Hagemeister, Dauphin extension home economist, challenged participants to examine traditions to see if they are of value to the family.

"Traditions play an important part in the strength and well-being of the family. However, there are times when we need to ask why we do this? What meaning does it hold? Who is responsible to make it happen? Can the responsibility be shared? And, what happens if we stop doing it?" Laeger-Hagemeister said.

"The most satisfying traditions for children are the ones that contribute to a feeling of security, stability, and belonging," she said.

Some suggestions that families might want to maintain but make easier is instead of making cut-out cookies from scratch, buy prepared sugar cookie dough, roll out, cut, and decorate. Or hold a cookie exchange with every person bringing a dozen of one kind of cookie for every participant.

"If you have eight people in the exchange, you receive eight dozen different cookies and only one mess in the kitchen," she said.

Some other suggestions from Laeger-Hagemeister included the following:

• Divide the menu up among family members and let each person take responsibility for part of the meal.

• Simplify gift giving by drawing names, using mail order, or shop throughout the year, rather than frantically trying to make something homemade for all the people on your shopping list. Or, make coupons for gifts of your time or talents that can be cashed in throughout the year.

• Send cards after the holidays, when you have more time and your recipients more time to enjoy them.

• Instead of sending cards, write a letter sharing information about your family. This saves time from writing in every card, and allows members of the family to write their own blurb in the letter.

Hetty Wengert of Hetty's Just For Sew in Myerstown showed how simple it is to make vests that look intricate from the many preprinted fabric panels available at many stores where fabric and crafts are sold. The panels are printed in a variety of designs and colors with instructions for adjusting sizes and adding details such as pockets and ties.

Sandra Walters distributed a basic doll pattern that can be used to make entirely different appearing dolls, angels, and snowmen by dressing them differently and designing different facial features on the dolls.

Even if you don't have one of Walter's patterns, you can use any doll pattern and give it an entirely different look by incorporating some of the following trims.

Some of the different materials Walters suggested using for hair that can be shaped into braids, buns, pony tails, bangs, and various lengths are roving wool that is straight, braided wool for curls, textured yarns, cord strings, torn fabric strips, Spanish moss, and fake fur.

Halos for angels can be made from glitter, chenille stems, star garland, Spanish moss, twisted with small flowers, braid, twig wreath circle, gold wire, gold ring, braided jute, and ribbon.

Accessories for dolls to hold offer another way to make unique dolls. Walters suggests choosing wire stars, holly or berries, pinecones or dried pods, hearts from fabric, wood, or wire, musical instruments, bells, baskets, wreaths, twig or greens, birdhouse or nest, bird, gingerbread man or lady, stocking, snowflakes, small tree, garland, cinnamon sticks, twigs, bear or other animal or doll, sack or bag, candy cane, raffia bow or streamers. broom, books or shopping list, ear muffs on snowman, hat, toys, or hobby items such as quilt, fishing rod, skis, or sled.

Becky Fisher Gerhart, who operates Queen Bee and Company, demonstrated rolling beeswax candles. She also said that wax can be melted and formed into cookie and candy molds for ornaments.

To make wax ornaments, melt down wax in an old coffee pot put into a water bath. Keep temperature below 165 degrees as wax is highly flamable. Spray silicone spray in candy molds and fill with melted wax until bubble forms on back and the wax looks like it will overflow. Put molds in freezer to cool but remove while wax is still warm to the touch so that the back of the wax ornament can be flattened. To remove bloom or the film that sometimes forms on candles, rinse under warm water and dry with a lint-free cloth or blow dry gently with a hair dryer.

Letie Schadler prepared several holiday dishes and Brian Peffley and assistants from the baking class of the Lebanon County Career and Technology Center prepared festive breads. Some of these recipes follow:

CRANBERRY JEZEBEL SAUCE

1 cup water
½ cup brown sugar
½ cup granulated sugar
12-ounce bag of cranberries, fresh or frozen
3 tablespoons prepared horseradish
1 tablespoon Dijon mustard

Combine water and sugars in medium saucepan; stir well. Bring to a boil over medium heat; add cranberries and return to a boil. cook 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Spoon into a bowl and let cool to room temperature. Stir in horseradish and mustard; cover and chill. Serve with beef, pork or turkey. Or pour over a block of cream cheese and serve with crackers. Be sure to wait to add the horseradish and mustard until the cranberies are cool to keep the heat. Perhaps you will want to warn guests that this is a hot spread.

FOOD-PROCESSOR TART DOUGH

2 sticks cold unsalted butter
2 cups unbleached flour
¼ cup superfine sugar
½ teaspoon kosher salt
¼ cup ice water

This recipe works best with very cold butter. Cut the butter into ½ -inch cubes. Since butter softens rapidly with handling, return the cubes to the refrigerator for at least 10 minutes while you set up the food processor and gather the dry ingredients.

Place the flour, sugar, and salt in the bowl of a food processor fitted with the steel blade. Pulse a few times to combine.

Add the butter, tossing quickly with your fingers to coat each cube with flour, taking care not to touch the blade. This prevents the butter cubes from adhering together and helps them to break apart and combine evenly with the flour.

(Turn to Page B14)

Sandra Walters displays some of the dolls and santas that she made. Notice her handcrafted vest made by weaving strips of different fabrics for pattern.

Almost 1,500 people attending the Lebanon County Penn State Cooperative Extension holiday program walked under this dramatic holiday archway to enter the day-long seminar held at the Lebanon Valley Expo Center recently. The same program was repeated over a three-day period.

To add a welcoming touch to your home's entrance, dress up a sled with some greens, berries, and plaid-colored bow.

This dramatic and unique centerpiece is easy to do according to designer Dennis Mellott who strung oranges and limes for the base, inserted a bouquet of fresh flowers and added some ornamental grass and Spanish moss.

Candle centerpieces are elegant and easy to arrange by purchasing a flower oasis at a nursery or craft center. Place around candle on a candle holder. Insert an assortment of greens and dried materials.

Buy Tree Fresh — Keep It Fresh

HONESDALE (Wayne Co.) — Is that Christmas tree fresh? When shopping for a fresh-cut Christmas tree, check it for freshness first. Grasp a branch between your thumb and forefinger, and pull it toward you. If it is fresh, few needles will fall off. Or, tap the stump on the ground and check for excessive needle loss. For another test of freshness, bend a needle between your fingers. If it doesn't break, the tree is fresh.

Disinfect the tree stand. Before you set up your Christmas tree, rinse the stand with a diluted bleach solution. A solution of 1 part bleach and 10 parts water will kill any microscopic organisms that could block the tree's water uptake.

Water tree daily. A seven-foot Christmas tree will drink up to a gallon of water a day. To keep it fresh-looking, add water to the tree stand daily as needed.

Make a fresh cut for fresh start. A critical first step in setting up your Christmas tree is a fresh cut across the tree's butt. Cut off about a half inch, and immediately put the tree in a tree stand that holds at least two quarts of water. Check the water level often, and never let the tree stand go dry. Instead of using plain water, you can mix a solution which may help keep your tree fresh longer. Use 1 gallon warm water, 4 tablespoons plant food, 4 teaspoons household bleach, and 2 cups light corn syrup. Replenish supply in tree stand as needed.

Pulse 15 times, or until the butter particles are the size of small peas.

With the motor running, add the ice water all at once through the feed tube. Process for about 10 seconds, stopping the machine before the dough becomes a solid mass. Turn the contents of the bowl onto a sheet of aluminum foil and refrigerate for at least one hour. The dough may be refrigerated up to 2 days or frozen for up to 2 weeks. (For convenience, wrap the dough in the portion size you are most likely to use. If it is frozen, defrost the dough, wrapped on your counter for 30 to 45 minutes or until it is still quite cold but pliable).

Makes 18 to 20 ounces of dough, or enough for one large tart, two 9-inch shells, or four little tarts for 2.

What Holiday Plants And Greens Are Hot This Christmas?

Poinsettias with unique cream and pink colors are getting the most attention by shoppers. Local poinsettia crops looked great this year. For example the variety 'marble' has unusual deep creamy bracts with a rosy-red heart. 'Pink Peppermint' has a softly speckled peach-pink bract. Depending on the lighting, pink peppermint is perceived as either pink, peach or pastel. 'Monet' has an outstanding deep pink, translucent color.

Multi-bloomed plants are stunning while single-stem plants are also popular displays for end tables, or windowsills. Another poinsettia favorite of mine is "jingle bells."

For consumers wanting to celebrate, decorate with traditional red poinsettias, choose green plants with excellent branching and dark green foliage. 'Celebrate,' or 'freedom' are my choice of the best red poinsettias.

New cyclamen cultivars have 2 to 3 inch flowers with stunning holiday colors including pink, rose, white, salmon, and violet bicolor. These dwarf, compact flowers can spread to about ten inches.

Unfortunately, cyclamen is difficult to grow in the home. Cyclamen requires cool night time temperatures less than 50°F, and bright indirect sunlight, without it, the leaves turn yellow and the buds die quickly. Also, water cyclamen plants as soon as the soil dries out. Do not water directly into the crown of the plant. Given proper care, cyclamen bloom until March.

For holiday decorating, gardeners need look no further than their backyards. Prune yews, Japanese or American holly, juniper, false cypress, arborvitate or red cedar for lovely greens. White pine, douglas fir and norway spruce are also good 'green' sources. However, use only the inside branches. Select and remove them carefully to avoid destroying growth from the cut tips.

In my mind, 'pine' cones are under-used in holiday decorations. Use spruce tree cones to make a garland for decorating a Christmas tree. Older pines, spruce and fir trees supply cones to decorate wreaths and arrangements.

The winterberry holly (Ilex verticllata) a native shrub drops its leaves in autumn leaving the berries to enjoy. The berries ripen in September and persist through January depending on feeding birds. Other bird loving bushes and trees with berries include roses, hawthorens, buckhtorn and elderberry. Or, make a brush pile for the birds out of Fall pruning.

Lastly, here's a gardener's Christmas wish-list. There are a few simple holiday ideas that cost little but mean a lot.

- Give the gift of an IOU for plant sitting or pet sitting while on vacation.
- A box of gardener's stationary, greeting cards and a subscription to a gardening magazine.
- A selection of herbal teas or a bag full of fresh greens for decorating.
- All sizes of clay pots including pot shards for using in table displays.

Miniature Horses Bring Family Pleasure

LINDA WILLIAMS

BEDFORD (Bedford Co.) — Horses have always been a part of Ann and Russell Whitfield's lives.

Growing up in sunny Florida, Russ rode in rodeos. Ann, who lived in Everett, showed hackneys and saddlebred horses.

The couple met through a classified ad in the newspaper, got married, and pursued their joint interest of horses.

Although they live in a spacious home in picturesque, rural Bedford County, the standard version of equestrians did not fit into the picutre of the Whitfield's two-acre lot. So, they downsized!

Ann Whitfield purchased the first two miniature horses at a sale in West Virginia. Her husband, Russ, was delighted as were their two children, Caitlin and David.

"Silver and Princess looked like good horses," Ann says. "So, we found ourselves a trainer, Bill Eperthaner, from York Springs, and Silver walked off with a host of awards at the American Horse Registry Association's national show in Columbia, Missouri. Included were the National Champion Open Driving Horse title, the National Champion Mens Driving Horse (driven by Eperthaner), National Champion Ladies Driving Horse (driven by Fran Eperthaner), and National Champion Amatuer Driving Horse (driven by Ann Whitfield).

Princess, a 2-year-old, won a reserve champion award and even their yearling, Star, was a top ten horse.

David, 16, won a national youth driving championship aboard Silver.

(Turn to Page B16)

Caitlin is proud of all the horses but considers Silver to be her own.

Miniature Horses Bring Family Pleasure

Silver was declared the top of 54 best miniature horses in the country, each of which were the cream of four regions of the country.

"And, it was our first year at Nationals," Ann laughs. "Everyone wondered where we came from."

A trophy room in a corner of the Whitfields' spotlessly clean barn adds to the tale of success as does an array of ribbons surrounding the sleeping quarters of the horse trailer.

"There are people who have been showing for 20 years and still have not won a ribbon," Ann continues.

Ann teaches school while Russ runs his own plastics business, but summer weekends revolve around the horses. "We're off to a show every two or three weeks," Ann says. "It keeps us busy, but we love it. We especially enjoy it because it is an excellent family activity."

There are two sizes of miniature horses. Those 34 inches and under are an A while those 34 to 38" are a B. "If they are more than 38" they are ponies," Russ explains.

"Having worked with horses for so many years, I can say I am extremely pleased to have these miniatures," Ann adds. "They take a lot less feed and a lot less space."

"We give them a bale of hay a week and a little grain. They take very little maintenance. If you treat them right they will stay very healthy. They might be a little more prone to respiratory infections, but those are treatable."

Miniatures do not wear shoes, but the Whitfield horses' hooves are trimmed by Jeff Holt, a farrier from Frostburg.

The cleanliness of the barn is aided with Russ' fiberglass abilities. Stalls are constructed of fiberglass and stainless steel while wood paneling gives the barn a homey touch.

Balls hand on strings into the stalls to keep the horses contented during the day.

"They are so affectionate and they get bored when no one is home all day," Ann says.

"We have also found them easier to train than standard horses. They are small and can be easily intimidated."

To prove a point, Russ brings a gorgeous Palomino out of the stall. "He was completely wild when we found him on a farm in North Carolina," Russ says. "But, with just a little work, he's doing great. We liked the way he trotted and that's why we bought him."

Russ and Ann have no desire to get into breeding. "We're only in it for the shows," Ann says. "We've reached the limit space-wise with the horses we have now and would like to sell a couple of them."

"As long as we have the energy and the desire, we'll be in that show ring every couple of weeks chalking up a lot of good memories," says Ann.

Russ and his prize palomino. Next year he'll compete against Ann in competitions.

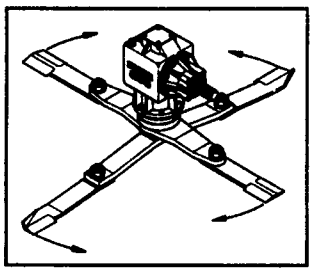
ROTARY CUTTERS



For shredding corn, wheat stubble and other crops, the CR14R (counter-rotating, 14-foot rigid cutter), the CR15F (counter-rotating, 15-foot flexwing) and the CR20F (counter-rotating 20 ft. flexwing), are revolutionary cutters in both design and performance.
The gearbox features twin shaft operating in opposite directions. The lower blade lifts and cuts the material, and the upward air flow lifts the cut material into the path of the counter-rotating flat blades. These blades continue the shredding process...resulting in near flail performance for shredded material.

Monroe County Young Farmers Capture Young Farmer Achievement Award

ROCHESTER, N.Y. — James and Alayne Doan of Hamlin, Monroe County, took first place honors, in New York Farm Bureau's Young Farmer Achievement Award at the organization's state convention at the Holiday Inn-Genesee Plaza in Rochester.

As the winners of the annual award, the Doans received $500 from Dodge Truck, a 486 computer, and a trip to the American Farm Bureau convention in January, in Nashville, to vie for national honors. The runners-up were Mike and Linda Cole of Montgomery County and Randy and Elizabeth Ooms of Franklin County.

The Doans own and operate 1,200 hives of honey bees in Monroe County. A graduate of Cornell University, James is president of the Empire State Honey Producers Association, on New York Farm Bureau's State Commodity Committee, and is active in Monroe County Farm Bureau.

Dale Mattoon, of Union Springs, Cayuga County, was the winner of the New York Farm Bureau's 1996 Young Farmer Discussion Meet, part of the 27,000 member farm organization's annual policy convention.

Mattoon edged out three other New York farmers to win the Discussion Meet. Mattoon was presented with a check for $500 from Dodge Truck, and will attend the American Farm Bureau Federation National Meeting in Nashville next month. Mattoon, 31, owns and operates a 500-cow dairy operation with his partner. The dairy farm employs eight.

Runners-up were Eric Ooms, of Columbia County, and Marc Kreiger and Jeff Werner, both of Monroe County. Each were presented with prizes of $150.

The Discussion Meet centered on the topic of Environmental Laws and Regulations, and required Mattoon and his fellow contestants to discuss in a round table format the affects these laws have on American farmers' ability to compete in the world marketplace.

Farmer Demonstration Grants Available

HOLLIDAYSBURG (Blair Co.) — Pennsylvania farmers who conduct experiments on their farms or who would like assistance to do so may be eligible for small grants to cover expenses.

Grants ranging from $300 to $500 were provided in 1996 to producers involved with experiments on fertilizer additives, vegetable variety comparisons, pasture aeration, and greenhouse potting media using farm compost.

Experiments should involve the comparison of at least two practices on the same farm or at least two levels of the same practice. The experiment must include at least three replicates of each practice. Assistance is available in designing the test and interpreting the results.

On-farm testing that uses statistically valid experimental designs is having a significant impact on farmer conducted research across the country. Farmers are achieving a much higher degree of trust in their experimental results, and find it easier to interest others in their ideas. An on-farm test can be a low risk, high return method for a producer to experiment with a new practice of innovative idea.

Farmers from any part of Pennsylvania are invited to participate. More information on applying for an on-farm testing grant is available from Phil Rzewnicki at the Blair County office of Penn State Cooperative Extension at P.O. Box 449, Highland Hall, Hollidaysburg, PA 16648 or by calling (814) 695-5541 ext. 210.

Rzewnicki may also be contacted through the assistance of local agricultural extension agents. The funding is part of a USDA Sustainable Agriculture and Research Education project to promote on-farm testing as a method of technology transfer.

Angus Breeders Induct Four Into Foundation

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. — Four people who have made significant contributions to the Angus breed have been selected for induction into the Angus Heritage Foundation, which identifies and honors those who have made major contributions to the improvement and advancement of Angus in the United States.

Special ceremonies honoring the inductees will be held during the American Angus Association's Annual Banquet Nov. 18 in Louisville, Ky.

The 1996 inductees include Arthur Bartenslager, Churchville, Va.; Jeanette Chitty, Micanopy, Fla.; and William Clark, Houston, Texas, as well as, Jim Baldridge, North Platte, Neb., who will be inducted posthumously.

Each inductee, or their family, will receive a framed Angus Heritage Foundation certificate and their name will be engraved on a permanent Heritage Foundation plaque in the American Angus Association headquarters in St. Joseph, Mo.

A panel of Angus breeders, agricultural journalists, and industry leaders makes the final selection of those honored. The judges are appointed by the board of directors of the American Angus Association.

Photos and brief biographies of the inductees will be included in the 1997 edition of the Angus Heritage Foundation booklet that lists inductees from the Foundation's beginning in 1983.

A short biography of each of the 1996 Angus Heritage Foundation inductees follows:

Dr. Arthur V. Bartenslager

Dr. Arthur V. Bartenslager, born in York County, Pennsylvania, is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania School of Veterinary Medicine. As a veterinarian his specialty was bovine reproduction, an interest he pursued for 40 years in many areas of the United States, as well as serving 20 years as a faculty member at the University of Pennsylvania. He began breeding Angus in 1947 and moved his family to Virginia in 1955 to develop the Bellemonte herd. He has been a strong supporter of the Angus Herd Improvement Records (AHIR) program and the sire performance program. He served the Virginia Angus Association as president in 1972, and completed two terms on the

SUBMITTING NUTRIENT MANAGEMENT PLANS

Leon Ressler
Extension Agent
Agriculture/Environment

Nutrient Management legislation was signed into law in Pennsylvania in May 1993. The enabling regulations were submitted for public comment in early 1996 and the responses to the comments are now being completed.

At this point it is expected that the final legal reviews of the regulations will be complete by the summer months of 1997 and the bill will take effect in September 1997.

The first nutrient management plans will be due one year later. Since this process is moving forward, it is time for producers to again think about formally submitting a nutrient management plan.

This bill requires that all animal operations with more than 2 animal units per acre (1,000 pounds of live weight equals one animal unit) prepare and submit a nutrient management plan to their local conservation district for approval. Farmers who take required training may write their own plans or they can hire certified nutrient management planers.

Training will be available this winter for those who want to become certified to write their own plans.

There will be several parts to the plans. The nutrient management section will include a determination of the cropping system and the acreage available for crop production. This will also include a calculation of nutrients available from manure and all other sources. Also, the proper rates, application dates, and methods of application for all nutrient sources will be included in this section.

There are several restrictions in the regulations limiting the situations when manure can be applied. Manure can not be applied within 100 feet of a sinkhole or private water source (well or spring) when the water flow is toward these areas unless the manure is incorporated within 24 hours of application. If state or federal laws require a greater isolation distance, the greater setback will apply.

A concentrated water flow area such as ditches or swales in which vegetation is maintained cannot have manure applications when the soil is frozen, snow-covered, or saturated. No manure can be applied to concentrated flow areas where vegetation is not maintained, such as intermittent streams, gullies, and ditches. Manure can not be applied within 100 feet of streams, lakes, ponds or intakes to agricultural drainage systems when soil is frozen, snow-covered, or saturated if the surface flow is toward these areas. Manure application is also banned within 200 feet of streams, lakes, ponds or intakes to agricultural drainage systems when the soil is frozen, snow-covered, or saturated if the surface flow is toward these areas and the slope is greater than 8 percent.

If it is determined that an operation produces more manure than can be safely utilized on the operation's crop and, the plan must include an explanation of how the surplus will be distributed. Options include export to known landowners for agricultural use, transfer through a manure broker, transfer to a known importer for use other than agricultural land application or processing on the producing operation for a use other than agricultural land application.

Details relating to the option chosen will need to be recorded in the plan. For example, when manure is exported to known landowners or operators for agricultural land application, the plan must list the name and location of the importing operation, the acreage available at each importing operation for spreading manure, the estimated amount of manure that could be exported to each operation, and the intended seasons for the manure transfers.

Operators shall provide the importer with a packet of educational material relating to nutrient management and estimating manure application rates.

The manure management portion of the plan will include an evaluation of the manure management system and its adequacy for protecting surface and groundwater. The evaluation shall include the handling, collection, storage, and application systems present in the operation.

Each plan will have a storm water runoff control section where the adequacy of runoff control practices on the operation will be reviewed. This review shall be conducted in conjunction with an individual with nutrient runoff control expertise such as a Natural Resources Conservation Service or Conservation District personnel. However a formal erosion and sedimentation plan will not be required as a part of the nutrient management plan.

There will be record keeping requirements related to the plans. These will include records of soil tests, manure tests, and land application records which include the locations and number of acres of nutrient application, the months of nutrient application, and the rate of nutrient application for each crop group.

Annual crop yields for each crop group and annual calculations of manure production shall be recorded. A manure transfer sheet shall be used for all manure transfers from the producing operation. The producer of the manure shall fill out section 1 of the Manure Transfer Sheet. When the producer or someone working under the direction of the producer applies the manure to the land, then the producer shall also fill out section two of the Manure Transfer Sheet. Operators will need to keep records of manure utilized in ways other than through manure transfers.

At the time of this writing, these regulations were still undergoing final review, so it is possible that

For Female Turkeys, Age Makes Difference

WOOSTER, Ohio — Older turkey hens produce better offspring, but no one knows exactly why, said Michael Lilburn, associate professor of animal science at Ohio State University's Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center in Wooster.

Baby turkeys, called poults, from younger hens are not as robust as those from older hens, Lilburn said. Poults from young hens are typically smaller than normal and are more likely to grow more slowly during the first two or three weeks after hatching.

Lilburn and Todd Applegate, a graduate research assistant, studied the eggs and poults of hens from 36 to 55 weeks of age to learn the difference caused by hen age. The average poult weight at hatching increased from 62.6 grams (2.19 ounces) from 36-week-old hens to 64.9 grams (2.27 ounces) from 55-week-old hens.

Younger hens usually produce smaller eggs, but egg size doesn't seem to cause smaller poults. Eggs from older hens that are the same size still hatch larger poults. So some biological advantage within the egg, rather than its size, causes the difference in poult weight, Lilburn said.

"If we can understand what causes the physiological difference between poults from older and younger hens, we can enhance the hens to try and eliminate the difference," Lilburn said.

Egg yolks size could be the answer. The yolk of an egg, whether it be chicken, turkey or any other bird, is the main nutrient supplier for a developing embryo. Nearly 95 percent of the nutrients an embryo receives comes from the yolk. Lilburn found that as hens age, they begin to deposit more yolk in eggs. The percent yolk weight of turkey eggs increased with hen age from 28.2 percent from 36-week-old hens to 34 percent from 55-week-old hens. The larger yolks could provide more nutrients to the embryo, increasing eventual poult size, Lilburn said.

Fat or lipid content in the egg also could have some impact. Lipids within the egg allow for more efficient transfer of nutrients from the yolk to the embryo. Lipid content was considerably lower in the eggs of the youngest hens, he said.

Most egg content and poult size differences occurred from the youngest hens of 36 weeks. Once the hens got to 41 or 42 weeks and beyond, no real differences existed. Scientists at the research center are continuing studies to understand the exact reason why younger hens produce smaller poults, Lilburn said.

Turkey hens raised for commercial use generally lay their first eggs at 34 weeks. They continue to lay eggs up to 60 weeks, when they are either sent to market or allowed to go out of production for three months. After the three months layoff, hens can produce eggs for another 12 to 20 weeks. Hens in peak egg production lay seven or eight eggs every 10 days.

there could be some changes before they are enacted. The regulations are quite lengthy so this article does not cover all the details in the regulations.

Computer programs are available which can greatly reduce the record keeping workload. Programs are available commercially and from public institutions.

Penn State has developed a computer program to assist farmers in nutrient management planning. The Penn State Nutrient Management Program was written using FOXPRO 2.6 and then compiled, resulting in a standalone relational database program. The program estimates manure resources, field and crop requirements, determines manure allocation, and publishes reports. The reports available include farm nutrient balance, manure group summary, field/crop summary, manure allocation scheme, and field-by-field nutrient balance.

The program is only available in the DOS environment and DOS 3.3 or higher is needed. A 386 computer or above is recommended with standard or extended memory and one high density floppy disk drive. The program cost is $50. It is available from Dr. Peter Bohn, Department of Agronomy, Penn State University, 116 ASI Building, University Park PA 16802.

American Cyanamid Dedicates Research Facility

PRINCETON, N.J. — American Cyanamid's Agricultural Products Research Division (APRD) held an official dedication of its newly constructed Greenhouse Support Facility.

The facility will allow Cyanamid researchers to evaluate compounds under carefully controlled conditions and increase the productivity of their discovery efforts.

Highlights of the ceremony included a keynote address by John R. Stafford, chairman, president, and chief executive officer of American Home Products Corporation, the parent company of American Cyanamid.

"The Greenhouse Support Facility will play a significant part in helping Cyanamid meet the major agricultural challenge of the 21st century: ensuring an affordable and abundant food supply for a growing world population while preserving the environment," he said.

Features of the new facility include automated soil-handling and dispensing equipment that allows a larger quantity of plants to be tested at one time. As a result, researchers can assess results in a timely manner. The new facility also contains three multi-purpose treatment areas, 15 individual growing zones with environmental control functions, and a number of environmental chambers. These features permit year-round greenhouse evaluation of new crop protection products.

The products and services which Wirt will deliver include financial accounting and record keeping, tax planning and preparation, payroll preparation, financial software sales and support, and business management counseling and advice.

Wirt is a graduate of Lock Haven University where he majored in accounting and business management. He was most recently employed by an accounting firm as a senior supervising accountant.

U. of Pa. Recognizes Commercial Company

PRINCETON, N.J. — Church & Dwight Co., Inc., was recently recognized at The Marshak Dairy Facility dedication for the company's $50,000 contribution toward construction of the first solar dairy barn in Pennsylvania.

The barn, located at the University of Pennsylvania's Center Animal Health and Productivity at New Bolton Center, will serve as a living laboratory for the School of Veterinary Medicine.

According to Dr. Kenneth Cummings, technical director for Church & Dwight's Ag Products Group, the contribution is part of the company's ongoing support of the dairy industry.

"It's been a pleasure to be associated with the University of Pennsylvania, and this is just one more way Church & Dwight is showing its commitment to the future of the dairy industry."

The $1.5 million Marshak Dairy Facility, named after Dr. Robert Marshak, emeritus dean of the School of Veterinary Medicine, consists of 160 freestalls, 48 tiestalls for nutritional studies, and a double-10 herringbone milking parlor.

Solar barns are energy efficient, naturally bright and easier to keep dry, which are all essential conditions for productive dairy herds. The barns, more common in northern states and Canada, are cost effective in terms of labor and building expense.

Dr. David Galligan, associate professor of animal health economics, said "The shell of the building is premanufactured as a solar agricultural building - in essence, a plastic greenhouse." To adapt to climate changes, the sides of the building can be rolled up during the summer to facilitate cross ventilation.

The facility will be used as a research and teaching site for areas of study such as preventative medicine, nutrition, reproduction, infectious and chronic diseases, and dairy cattle health economics.

Dr. William Chalupa, professor of nutrition at the School's Center for Animal Health and Productivity, said "The facility is a commercial dairy barn with modifications for extensive and intenstive research. We recognized that in order for us do relevant research we needed an environmental setting that emulates the real world."

Church & Dwight was one of five major contributors to the facility.

Lepley Promoted To President Of Hoffman Seeds

Fred Lepley

LANDISVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — Fred Lepley was recently promoted to president of Hoffman Seeds, Inc. He had been serving as executive vice president and chief operating officer.

Lepley joined Hoffman Seeds in 1981 as assistant to the company's former president, J. Richard Godshalk. He has served in various positions since then, including director of farm seed operations, vice president and director of sales and marketing, and executive vice president and chief operating officer.

"Fred has been an integral factor in the success of Hoffman Seeds," said George Ewing, chairman of the board and chief executive officer. "This promotion will give him even more control of the company's future direction."

During his tenure, Lepley has been instrumental in expanding the company's soybean offering, improving testing and evaluation programs and improving seed production. Under his guidance, Hoffman has made substantial gains both in market share and in total units sold across all major seed categories.

In his new position he will focus on the company's overall business activities while increasing his exposure to the overall seed trade.

Lepley is a graduate of Penn State with a bachelor's degree in agronomy.

Mid-Sized Rectangular Baler Recognized

The Case IH 8575 mid-sized baler was recently named among the top 50 products of 1996 by Resource magazine. The award, known as the AE50, is given out for "worthwhile contributions to the advancement of engineering technology." The 8575 is designed for high productivity and durability, especially in high-moisture crops.

RACINE, Wis. — The Case IH 8575 mid-sized baler was recently named among the best new products for 1996 by Resource magazine for its "worthwhile contribution to the advancement of engineering technology."

A panel of eight judges, all members of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers, reviews nominations from component suppliers, equipment manufacturers and systems developers representing many different industries before it selects the top 50 to receive the AE50 Award.

"The 8575 was designed for high productivity and durability, in both conventional dry and high-moisture crops," said Bruce Spidle, Case product and marketing manager for livestock production equipment. "Innovative engineering and superior manufacturing have always been the keys to our success. Our engineers are constantly on the leading edge in developing high-quality, high-production hay equipment with designs like the 8575."

Key features of the 8575 include heavy-duty drive and feeding components, making it ideal for high-load silage baling and providing added performance and durability in normal dry-baling conditions.

The heavier stuffer and drive components work together to create a machine built to withstand the rigors of baling heavy, wet silage type hay.

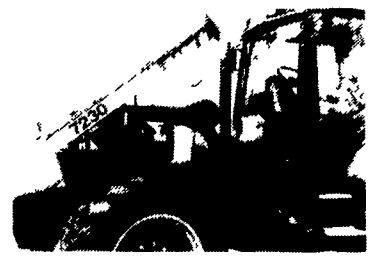
"High-moisture crops can put a lot of stress on a baler," said Spidle. "Fortunately, since the introduction of the 8575, farmers have the choice of purchasing a machine designed to handle wet silage bales as well as it handles normal dry hay."

Optional hydraulic bale-ejector and roller-chute attachments are available to allow the operator to remove the last bale from the chamber.

"A farmer has the option of leaving the last bale in the field where it was baled before going on to the next field," said Spidle. "These features are especially beneficial when baling silage because the bales need to be wrapped for preservation. They are also becoming preferred options for custom operators who want to leave all of a customer's hay in the field."

For even greater productivity, Case is adding two new machines to its hay and forage line for 1997, both will work in conjunction with the 8575. The 8576 bale accumulator allows grouping of up to four bales in strategic locations, decreasing bale retrieval time and field compaction. The 8650 bale wrapper allows the operator to quickly and efficiently wrap silage bales to ensure proper fermentation.

Tractor Maintenance Tips Provide Top Winter Performance



Winter months can cause undue stress to a tractor unless the proper maintenance procedures are followed. Here, a Case IH Magnum™ tractor is being serviced to ensure that performance doesn't drop when the temperature outside does.

RACINE, Wis. — Gone are the days when doctors made house calls on snowy nights.

So, too, are the days when tractors needed only some antifreeze and a full tank of fuel to stay in top form all winter long.

According to Joe Safransky, product performance manager, Case IH Magnum™ tractors, the modern, sophisticated workhorses on farms today, are just as susceptible to winter maladies as their predecessors.

"By following a few, simple maintenance steps, farmers can help their tractors get through the cold season without a hiccup," he said.

Below, Safransky prescribes the winter tractor-care precautions for the engine, electrical, fuel and transmission systems. But, he cautions, winter is not the only time for tractor checkups.

"Specific steps must be taken for cold-weather operation. However, following the service intervals outlined in the operator's manual throughout the year is the best preventative medicine.

Engine system:

• Check the concentration of antifreeze to provide adequate low-temperature protection. A 50-percent ethylene glycol mixture is recommended.

• Verify the block heater is in good working order. Don't have a block heater? See your local equipment dealer. Block heaters are available through the parts system and are easily installed.

Electrical system:

• Check the electrolyte level on low-maintenance batteries every 250 hours.

• Clean the battery terminals and make sure batteries are fully charged.

• Check the condition of the alternator belt and replace if cracked or frayed.

• Inspect wiring for cracks, frayed insulation or corrosion.

Fuel system:

• Using the fuel tank's water-drain valve, drain off any condensation and sediment.

• Consider changing to a lighter, winter-blend diesel fuel that is less likely to gel when the temperature drops below freezing.

Transmission system:

• Check the transmission oil level.

• Install a transmission oil heat maintainer to keep the oil warm for improved cold-temperature starting.

To avoid costly emergency care, consult the operator's manual regularly, make routine checkups, and pay close attention to the four major systems most susceptible to the winter blahs.

Angus Breeders Induct Four Into Foundation

American Angus Association board of directors, as well as a year as president in 1976.

Jeannette Chitty

Jeannette Zetrouer Chitty and her husband Henry M. Chitty, who passed away in 1991, established Stardust Ranch in 1945 near Gainesville, Fla. She was one of the first women to graduate from the University of Florida with a major in animal science, and then went on to teach agriculture. Jeannette and Henry started keeping performance records on their herd in 1958. In 1990 the Florida Cattlemen's Association named the Chitty's honorary directors in recognition for their many years of service to the state's beef industry. Jeanette was a director of the Florida Angus Association and the Florida Beef Cattle Improvement Association. Jeannette and her family continue to breed Angus cattle at the Stardust Ranch.

William Clark

William Clark was born in Golden, Okla., in 1921, then moved to Texas where he was raised on a cattle and cotton farm. He served four years in the U.S. Air Force as a B17 bomber pilot stationed in England. After returning home, he established a family automobile dealership in 1945, which still operates today. In 1952 he started Clark Angus Ranch in Huntsville, Texas. He was a pioneer of the Angus Herd Improvement Records (AHIR) program and made numerous trips to Central and South America promoting the Angus breed. In addition, he was the American Angus Association representative at the Mini World Forum in Buenos Aires, Argentina. Clark served two terms as director of the American Angus Association and was elected president in 1974.

Jim Baldridge

Jim Baldridge spent his childhood years in northwest Missouri. It wasn't until 1963 that his work as a fieldman for livestock publications, including the Angus Journal, landed him in North Platte, Neb., where he found the Baldridge Place. In the years to come, he became a widely recognized auctioneer, founded two sale management firms, a catering business and a food company. As an Angus breeder, Jim imported and co-owned the 1969 International grand champion bull, Great Northern. He bred many popular bulls and established a foundation herd that is still in the family today. In his lifetime, he managed and auctioneered countless Angus sales and served as president of the Professional Livestock Auctioneers Association. He will not only be remembered for his dedication to raising quality Angus seedstock, but also for his culinary skills that launched a family catering and food business, as well as its flagship product — Jim Baldridge's Secret Seasoning.

National Dairy Shrine

Approves Slogan

SHAWANO, Wis. — National Dairy Shrine, nearing the 50th anniversary of its founding, recently announced it has adopted a new slogan. The new slogan reads: "Uniting America's Dairy Industry Since 1949."

The slogan was formally approved by the National Dairy Shrine Executive Committee at its meeting on November 22. Development of the slogan came about by initial ideas of the organizations' Publicity Steering Committee, with final approval by the Board of Directors.

The slogan will be used on all publicity materials and correspondence related to National Dairy Shrine.

National Dairy Shrine, the "Hall of Fame" of the dairy industry, has over 15,000 lifetime members located in all 50 states and in many other countries. Its goals are to record dairy history and to honor past, present and future dairy leaders. Several scholarships are provided each year to college students and a museum and visitors' center is maintained at Fort Atkinson, Wis.

PRODUCT INFORMATION AND MARKETING

I recently read an editorial from a Purdue University professor about the way the bedding plant industry sells their products.

In the article the author discusses some factors about the marketing of bedding plants that I believe also apply to the marketing of our fruit and vegetable crops here in Lancaster County.

Basically there are two types of products — those that sell themselves and those that need to be sold. Let's look at each of these ideas in relation to our crops.

A good example of a product that sells itself is sweet corn. Many consumers eagerly await the first ears of the season and in some cases will pay a premium price for them. This explains why sweet corn acreage makes up the bulk of the total vegetable acreage in Pennsylvania each year.

As a marketer, you do not need to try to sell people sweet corn but rather you only need to tell them when it is available and they will come to by it.

Many markets use the strong demand for sweet corn to sell other products by placing the corn in the back of the market. Customers will possibly be inspired to purchase other items they see on the way back to the sweet corn and thus the total sale per customer is increased.

One important factor in the customer's desire for a product is quality. Even though there is a strong demand for sweet corn, you will have few return customers if you sell poor quality ears. When in doubt about the quality of your product, perhaps you should consider removing it from the shelves.

Unfortunately, customers will remember one bad batch of corn much longer than they will remember many good ones. With the development of newer corn varieties that hold their quality longer, you should be able to provide the high quality necessary to generate return sales.

If your corn has poor quality then you need to investigate where the quality is being lost. Is it poor handling? Harvesting too early or late? Poor variety selection? Each of these factors can be examined and corrected.

The second type of product — one that needs to be sold — is where I think many markets could increase sales. To continue using corn as an example here would be to try to sell yellow sweet corn in Lancaster County. The conventional thoughts on selling sweet corn here is that a market can only sell white or bicolor corn — people just aren't interested in yellow sweet corn.

However, I know of at least two markets in the county that sell 50 percent or more of their sweet corn as yellow corn. How? By taking some time to educate their customers. They told their customers about the new variety of yellow corn they were growing. They let them know what other customers have said about it.

One marketer would even put an ear of yellow corn in the bag of white corn customers were buying (at no charge) and tell the customer to try it. Frequently, the customer would purchase yellow corn upon their next visit to the market. The key here is to spend some time and educate your customers about the product.

Many people are curious about new fruits and vegetables but are reluctant to try them because of uncertainty. Humans are creatures of habit and, when in doubt, we tend to stay with what we know about. As a marketer you need to build upon the curiosity of people about a new variety by providing more information. Make them confident that it is worth the money to try the new product. If necessary, perhaps a small, free sample will be necessary for a short period of time while your customers become familiar with the new product.

With the increasing appearance of variety names in the marketplace, you can educate people to ask for the variety you are growing or are selling.

The increasing use of variety names in the market is, at least to me, going to be good for your marketing efforts. You can educate people about the excellent qualities of a particular variety of yellow sweet corn rather than just talking about yellow corn. In this way the customer will feel more confident that they will get the same high quality on their next visit to your market because they will know to ask for a specific product.

The key for you, the marketer, is to have a continuous supply of quality produce for the buyer. You also need to be informed about the product you are promoting.

No matter what type of produce you are trying to market, you need to have the highest quality possible. When this high quality is combined with some customer education, I believe you can increase both produce sales and return sales. Ultimately, time spent with your customers is definitely time well spent.

Governor's Conference On Delaware Agriculture Slated For February

NEWARK, Del. — Clear your calendar for Friday, Feb. 28, to attend the third annual Governor's Conference on Delaware Agriculture at the Sheraton Inn in Dover.

Beginning at 7:15 a.m. with the Friends of Agriculture breakfast, the conference will center on the theme "Exploring Linkages in Agriculture, Environment and International Trade."

Speakers at the event, which is organized by the University of Delaware's department of food and resource economics and by Delaware Cooperative Extension, will include Gov. Tom Carper, Lt. Gov. Ruth Ann Miner and Dr. Sherman Robinson, an international trade expert. Robinson is director for trade and macroeconomics at the International Food Research Institute and a former senior economist on the President's Council of Economic Advisors.

"The conference aims to highlight the economic contributions of the agricultural sector to Delaware's economy, and to examine issues and policies impacting agriculture in Delaware," said Dr. Tom Ilvento, cooperative extension specialist for economic development at the University of Delaware and one of the organizers of the event.

"The agricultural industry in Delaware will face unique challenges in the next century," he said. "On one hand, consumers and community residents are demanding more assurances that our food is safe and the impact of agriculture on the environment is minimal. On the other, competition from foreign producers presents new challenges. With the advent of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT), the European Union and the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA), farmers and farm marketers must understand their role in the global economy."

The conference will explore these issues with emphasis on the Delmarva poultry industry. A panel of experts will speak on future trends, exports, and environmental and labor issues. Other topics will range from farmers' attitudes toward land-use proposals to the impact of free trade agreements on agriculture. Time will be allotted for questions and discussions during each session.

Each year the conference has increased in size and scope. This year organizers are reaching out to more agricultural groups and encouraging producer participation.

Registration information will be mailed out in early January. If you have questions or are interested in having a display at the conference, contact Dr. Bobby Gempesaw at (302) 831-1315 or Dr. Tom Ilvento at (302) 831-6773.

Pennsylvania Cooperative Director Institute Scheduled

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — Pennsylvania Cooperative Directors who have completed a previous Director Institute or who have more than five years experience as a director can learn more about their roles as cooperative directors and leaders. The third Pennsylvania Graduate Director Institute will be held at the Penn State Scanticon Conference Center, January 28-30, 1997.

The Institute is designed to provide support for both new and experienced directors. The overall theme for the 1997 Institute is Developing Strategic Leadership. Topics include: Factors in Strategic Planning, Choosing A Winning Structure, Lessons From The Market Place, Maintaining and Enhancing Shareholder Value, Legal Issues, Board Dynamics, and Board Management Relations. Other issues facing cooperative leaders and their organizations will be addressed in the more than fifteen session topics and in informal sessions among participating directors and managers.

Speakers include University personnel, cooperative staff, and business leaders. Workshops and breaks provide opportunity to interact with other directors and managers, sharing concerns, and challenges. Some participants argue that this is where the real education goes on. Regardless of the method, the Pennsylvania Director Institutes consistently earn high marks from participants.

Pennsylvania Secretary of Agriculture Charles C. Brosius, who will be a keynote speaker, encourages directors to attend, saying, "Cooperative directors in the 90s face critical decisions about the future of their cooperatives. They must constantly reassess their mission and evaluate the services they provide to their member-owners. This Institute will help board members gain the insight they need to fulfill their obligations."

Other announced speakers include:

• Dr. David Butt, Associate Professor in the Smeal College of Business Administration at Penn State. Dr. Butt will address issues related to board dynamics and board management relations.

• Porter Little, Vice President and Sr. Portfolio Manager of CoBank. Porter will conduct business and finance training.

• Donald Schriver, Executive Vice President and CEO of Milk Marketing, Incorporated. In addition to sharing some of MMI's experiences, Don will focus on issues on strategic leadership and planning.

The Pennsylvania Cooperative Director Institute is supported by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture. Planning in consultation with an eleven-person committee of cooperative leaders assures relevance. This is the fifteenth director institute in a series that began in 1983. The Pennsylvania Director Institute has graduated 304 directors and 69 management leaders in the past eleven institutes. Forty-four different cooperatives in eleven different states have enrolled board members.

For more information about the Institute, please call Dick Poorbaugh at (814) 863-0644, or e-mail Poorbaugh@po.aers.psu.edu. The address is Cooperative Business Education and Research Program, Penn State University, 206 Armsby Building, University Park, PA 16802.

National Dairy Shrine Has Something For Everyone

SHAWANO, Wis. — Any industry as dynamic as dairying in the United States needs its history recorded and its future celebrated. National Dairy Shrine, an organization made up of dairy producers, business people, educators and youth, has been committed to that end for 47 years.

National Dairy Shrine annually awards over $11,000 in scholarships to college students in dairy related studies, provides cash awards to participants in dairy cattle judging contests at World Dairy Expo, and recognizes lifelong achievements of breeders, industry leaders and educators.

For a "hands-on" historical perspective on dairying in the U.S., National Dairy Shrine maintains its popular Visitors' Center and Museum at Fort Atkinson, Wis. It's open year 'round and admission is free.

National Dairy Shrine, the "Hall of Fame" of the dairy industry, has over 15,000 lifetime members located in all 50 states and in many other countries. Lifetime membership is open to anyone for a one-time fee of only $50.

For information on becoming a member of National Dairy Shrine, contact James Leuenberger, Secretary/Treasurer at 715-526-7503 or 7536 or at jleuenberger@crinet.com.

Alternative Agriculture Grant Program Seeks Interested Farmers

CHARLOTTE HALL, Md. — The Tri-County Council for Southern Maryland is looking for interested farmers to participate in a demonstration program established to help southern Maryland farmers learn more about alternative agriculture enterprises.

The program's goal is to assist farmers by providing "seed money" for on-farm demonstrations and applied research projects, and to determine the feasibility and profit-making potential of new agricultural enterprises. Any farmer within the southern Maryland region is eligible to submit a proposal for consideration.

Grant requests should be between $500 and $1,000. Requests for more than $1,000 will be considered based on the merits of the proposal and the availability of funds. Alternative agriculture project areas include aquaculture, field crops, floriculture, forestry, horticulture, livestock, turf production, seminars, networking groups, and marketing or feasibility studies. The deadline for applying is March 3, 1997.

To receive a copy of the grant application or for additional information about this program, contact Candy Walter, agricultural specialist for the Tri-County Council, at (301) 884-2144 or 870-2520.

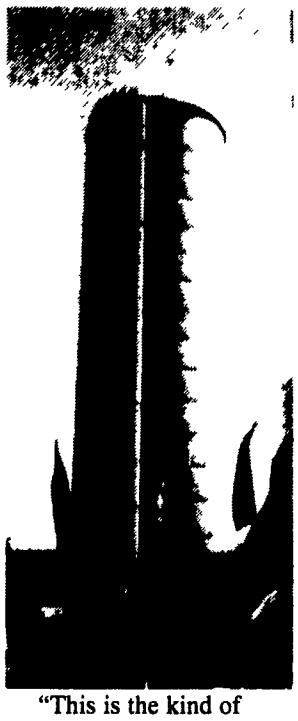
THINK CONCRETE WHEN PLANNING YOUR FEED STORAGE!!



"This is the kind of silo you need to protect your valuable feed."

"HOW WILL YOU BE STORING YOUR VALUABLE FORAGES AND GRAINS IN THE 21st CENTURY?"

It's not too early to begin planning your storage and feeding systems for the year 2000 and beyond.

As margins narrow, dairymen need to invest in efficiency; this can have as great an influence on PROFIT as milk price changes.

Protect your valuable feeds from the elements...increase the efficiency of your feeds, your animals, and your labor.

LLAMAS

If you've been considering starting in llamas, or having a llama for a pet, why not stop in to see our herd.

Our young males start at $500, our weanling females at $2,500, our pregnant females at $3,500. A deposit will hold any of our crias (baby llamas) for you.

We prefer seling off the farm, rather than subjecting our animals to the stress of auctions.

All of our llamas are registered with the International Llama Registry. Some of the finest wool and blood lines can be found in our herd, incuding Otter Creek Harold.

All llamas can be halter led, and are gently trained by teenagers.

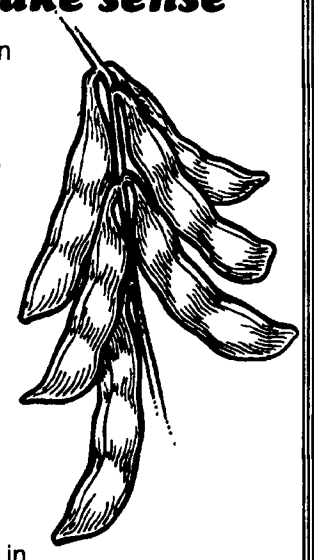
Sell your beans?
"It just doesn't make sense"

1. Why loose the 18% high energy oil in your own beans?
2. Why let the soybean processor take the valuable lechicin?
3. Why forfeit 50% of the metabolizable energy over SBM?
4. Why pay storage, trucking and shrink?



Be sensible! Let SCHNUPP'S custom roast your Soybeans

Receive the value of added fat in your ration - MORE MILK
Get the most By-Pass Protein available in your beans - MORE PROTEIN UPTAKE
Keep all the nutritional components originally in the soybean. - MORE FLEXIBILITY

Seasons Greetings,

As we approach the end of another busy year, it is time to reflect a bit on 1996. We hope your harvests have been bountiful and good health and prosperity have been yours. We are extremely grateful for the privelege of serving you throughout the past year and wish to continue to do an even better job in the future.

Let's Talk Torque

A High-Tech Retofit Adds Life To Older Tractors

Retrofit with the Fittest

Exclusively from Case dealers, the Case IH retrofit torque amplifier with the Mechanical Diode™ one-way clutch brings a new standard of reliability and value to your older IH tractors.

- The Mechanical Diode last significantly longer than any sprag clutch. It relies on a single strut to engage for lockup while the sprag clutch relies on the engagement of 30 separate cams. Plus, its ratchet-like action needs only a 15-degree pivot for full engagement.
- Includes a full 5-year warranty (parts and labor) on the torque amplifier and a 15-year warranty on the Mechanical Diode component when we install it.

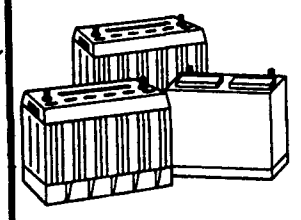
TRACTOR AND COMBINE BATTERIES



- Case MAGNA POWER™ batteries are built to withstand 30 hours of 5G vibration testing.
- Epoxy-anchored plates eliminate grid vibration, a common cause of internal short circuits and early failure.
- Computerized grids provide quicker response in both starting and recharging.

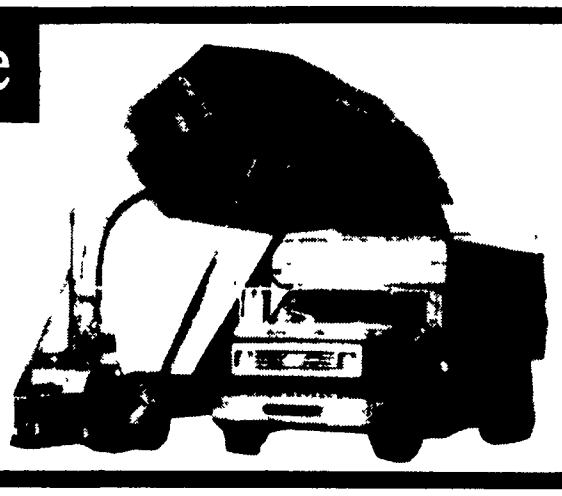
RICHARDTON
YOU'LL NEVER FIND A BETTER FORAGE WAGON

RICHARDTON — A Step Ahead For Farmers . . .



The new 700 series wagon diagonal slide system allows truck drivers close access to the dump wagon and reaches out to put loads in the center of the box. And the 45-degree dump angle makes this wagon self-cleaning.

Two models with rugged frames are built to handle either 750 cu. ft. or 1,000 cu. ft. loads.

The wide undercarriage and low profile lower the center of gravity for greater stability on hilly fields.

An adjustable offset hitch is standard to match row crop spacings and the vented roof allows straight-through air flow. Richardton double-reinforced boxes are built to handle up to 30,000 lb. loads with ease.

KINZE ROW UNITS

You start with a simple, dependable row unit design with easy adjustments that give you exact depth control, and the most ideal seed-to-soil contact possible. At KINZE we call it "Precision Placement." Simply put, it's the toughest most dependable system in the field today.

How does it work? At the exact point of seed placement, 15" double disc openers and dual gauge wheels combine to mold a clean, consistent V-formed seed trench at a pre-set depth. Trailing V-closing wheels then securely press the seed trench walls on each side of the seed for positive seed-to-soil contact, virtually eliminating air pockets and leaving a loose "hill" of soil on top of the seed. It's the ideal environment for the emerging seeding.

Each row unit is indpendently adjustable for depth and down pressure. Spring-loaded parallel arms give you all the flexibility you need. Down pressure? Your choice. Standard, quick-adjustable dual springs for conventional planting, or quad springs (shown right) for conservation tillage. Each with four positions so you can set the unit's down force for your conditions.

EPDs Important For Weaning Weights

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Weaning time is when most cattle producers evaluate how well their bulls have performed, according to Dr. John Hough, research and performance director for the American Hereford Association.

Hough said that using expected progeny differences (EPDs) as a tool to help select breeding stock can dramatically improve the genetics of your herd, and thus each calf crop.

"EPDs are tools provided by breed associations that can help you better understand the genetic makeup of the breeding stock you purchase, helping you to better predict the performance of your calves," Hough said. "Using EPDs will not guarantee perfect offspring, but will enhance the probability of profit."

An EPD is one-half an animal's actual breeding value, because a parent only transmits a random one-half of its genes to each of its offspring, or progeny. Therefore, a sire transmits a random half of his genes for weaning growth and the dam transmits a random half of her genes for weaning growth. A dam provides her entire genetic merit for milk production to the calf.

Milk genes actually transmitted to the calf do not directly affect its weaning weight, but the actual milk production of the dam. And, the milk produced by the dam has a direct effect on a calf's early growth.

"However, when referencing a sire's EPDs, you should select for weaning weight since the weaning weight EPD has a direct influence on his progeny's weaning weights. A sire's milk EPD only has a direct effect on his daughter's milk production," Hough said.

"So, when you examine a sire's total genetic influence on maternal grand progeny, you have a combination of direct genetic effects for weaning growth and maternal genetic effects. The environment has a very large effect, as does the combination of growth and milk genes. Never try to predict a cow's production by looking at weaning weight EPDs or milk EPDs alone. It is always a combination of both. Also, only a sire's weaning weight EPD affects the weaning weights of his own progeny."

Hough stresses that a thorough understanding of EPDs and their uses is important. Your state or county extension office can provide complete information.

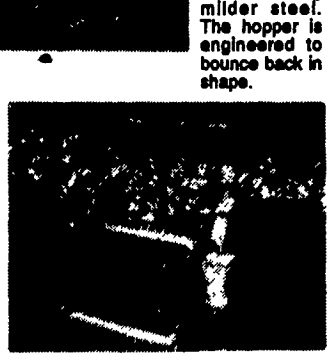
Clear Your Land Of Rocks With A Quality Degelman Rock Picker

Grated Hopper Bottom We use spring steel straps in the hopper instead of using milder steel. The hopper is engineered to bounce back in shape.

Hydraulic Drive The most popular drive on rock pickers is hydraulic which is standard on the 6000. We have incorporated a relief valve to take away the shock when disengaging the drive.



Rotation Tires: The 16.5Lx16.1 flotation tires are standard equipment and are a must to reduce soil compaction.

Reel Assembly We are using the same reel as the proven Super Picker 6800. The three paddel reel has a large diameter, hard surfaced teeth and heavy duty paddles.

Master Food Educators Take The IPM Train

NEWARK, Del. — What does IPM, integrated pest management, have to do with you and me? The answer is — a lot!

IPM is a system of controlling agricultural pests, including insects, rodents, weeds and diseases.

University of Delaware Cooperative Extension recently led several Master Food Educators, who are trained extension volunteers, on a one-day tour of farms, greenhouses, and research facilities. The purpose: to familiarize them with the concept of IPM and to let them see a side of production agriculture that most people aren't privy to.

"So much goes into food production that the average consumer never sees," said Dr. Sue Snider, extension food and nutrition specialist. Snider, who coordinates the training of Master Food Educators, planned the IPM tour with Joanne Whalen, IPM specialist; Marty Spellman, IPM associate; and Carl Davis, New Castle County agricultural agent.

"We felt it was important for the Master Food Educators to have a deeper understanding of the behind-the-scenes aspects of food production," Snider said. "IPM was a good choice because of its potential direct effect on consumers."

IPM, which uses multiple strategies to control pests, has a number of beneficial results that can directly affect the consumer. Benefits can include a more abundant food supply, a safer food supply because of reduced chemical controls, and reduced production costs for farmers resulting in reduced food prices for consumers.

Whalen says that IPM controls fall into the broad categories of biological, mechanical, cultural, and chemical. Cultural controls include crop rotation and planting dates. Use of beneficial insects falls under the umbrella of biological control. Plowing under weeds is an example of mechanical control. And monitoring the pest population is essential to determine if chemical control is needed.

Constant vigilance and painstaking attention to detail is required to monitor pest populations. Cooperative extension hires IPM scouts to help with the monitoring process during the growing season.

In the war against pests, scouts carry a seemingly innocuous arsenal of equipment including magnifying glasses, nets, small jars and notebooks. These tools are used to examine plants, collect specimens and record the pest population level in a given field. Examining leaves with a magnifying glass, shaking insects into sheets, or sweeping them into nets are all labor-intensive techniques that can save bundles of money and gallons of chemicals that would be used unnecessarily on food crops.

"You appreciate food more when you realize all the work that goes into it," said Snider. "On the tour, our Master Food Educators had an opportunity to examine young cabbage plants for any evidence of insect invasion. And along with an appreciation for the hard work involved, they came away with a better understanding of the food industry and the management techniques that go into ensuring a safe food supply."

No Gypsy Moth Suppression in 1997

YORK (York Co.) — There is no gypsy moth suppression program planned for York County in 1997.

The gypsy moth population is low due to natural controls and in the entomophaga maimeiga fungus. There was a good potential for a major outbreak in the county, which did not occur due to entomophaga/natural causes.

This fungus affects the gypsy moth in the caterpillar stage. Moisture is critical for disease development and the rains during the larval stage is May and June made for ideal conditions.

The gypsy moth populations were impacted not only in York, but statewide as well as all of the North East. The potential existed for 200,000+ acres of defoliation (30% of tree's leaves eaten by the caterpillars) statewide.

Actual defoliation was 9,027 acres which is the lowest state total since 1979. York County experienced 18 acres of defoliation as compared to 3,021 acres in 1995.

The entomophaga fungus is native to Asia and was first found in Pennsylvania in 1989. The first evidence of the fungus in York County was in 1994.

As a result of egg mass surveys conducted in York County, low to no gypsy moth population should be evident in 1997.

These egg masses are deposited by adults in July and hatch into caterpillars the following spring. Studies show that there needs to be at least 250 healthy egg masses per acre to cause damaging levels of defoliation (i.e. 30%+).

That also is the minimum requirement for spray purposes. No area of the county even approaches that level.

This year only 15 requests for egg mass surveys were received by this office. That compares to 710 in 1995.

The county gypsy moth coordinator and DEP Bureau of Forestery continues to monitor the population and will offer the program in the future if and when gypsy moth populations warrant.

Reaching the top is easier if you have the AGCO® Allis 7600 tractor pulling you up

Make Your Way Up Your Own Corporate Ladder.

The 89 PTO hp engine has the power to muscle through most any job. This multi-purpose, row-crop tractor has a standard synchronized transmission with 24 forward and 12 reverse speeds. For your convenience, you can choose between the cab or rops with an optional canopy

- A direct air-cooled diesel engine powers the tractor and delivers maximum strength through the full speed range. So you're able to get more work done using less fuel, doing less shifting and requiring less effort to operate the tractor.
- This also lets you match engine power to ground speeds for more efficient field work.
- The AWD models feature true centerline drive shaft for more efficient power transfer and less maintenance.
- Like always, every AGCO Allis tractor comes with a 4-year/ 4,000-hour warranty that's backed by your dealer.

To see what the 7600 tractor can do for you, just stop by and see us. You'll be surprised at how fast you'll climb.

Hurry In...

The compact size of the L35 with TL720& BT900 allows you to operate efficiently in tight, small areas that are inaccessible to larger TLBs. And, it's easy to move from one job to another. It can be transported with just a 3/4 ton pickup truck and trailer, usually with a regular Class C Driver's License. Operators find the controls "user -friendly," especially useful in rental fleets, and large contractor fleets where operators may go from one piece of equipment to another on a regular basis. The L35 retains the full versatility of a compact with its 3-pt. hitch and PTO for tilling, mowing or box scraper work.

UTILITY SERIES TRACTORS
9011L • 98 HP

BELARUS VALUE. IN MORE WAYS THAN ONE.

Introducing two big changes in how small jobs get done. The 8011L and 9011L offer a low clearance design and tight turning radius that provide even higher levels of maneuverability. And they still manage to offer the same durability, value and affordability you expect from Belarus.

Choose from the 8011L's 81 tough 81 hp four cylinder water cooled engine or the 9011L turbo charged 98 hp. Both engines have strong torque characteristics. Add it all up and you've got utility tractors ideal for every type of operation from orchards and vineyards to poultry operations and custom work.

But the exception is he doesn't top them. The 8011L and 9011L offer excellent lift capacity for front end loader applications. Other impressive features include power assisted steering, and a fully adjustable seat for operator comfort and convenience.

Combined with their ease of maintenance and servicing, it's not hard to see how Belarus make even the smallest jobs easier in a big way. That's Belarus value.
